Reflection 30th Sunday
This is the fundamental teaching of Jesus in the Gospel of today, that we are all brothers and sisters, only if we commit ourselves in doing God’s will. From this truth that Jesus felt so strongly came much of his preaching to retreat each other as family at its best would. Jesus underscores what it takes to be his true and faithful disciple, those who attribute his teaching and power to unclean sources have closed themselves off forever from his goodness, but those who hear his words and keep it, even if their efforts are imperfect, are the ones who find in him life, forgiveness, renewal, and redemption. The reign of God makes demands on the personal commitment of a disciple, which must transcend at times all natural bonds of family or ethnic grouping. – Fr. Caroli Shao, AJ

Reflection
When Jesus says “whoever does the will of God is my brother and sister and mother, he is not turning his back on his family. He is challenging us to rethink our own place in the world. He is inviting us to join his family and become his sisters and brothers.
