THOUGHTS WHILE WALKING IN THE PARK

In Honor of the Moms, and Dads who mold the lives of our children

Now that the weather is getting warmer, to escape for a few minutes to take a stroll in the park is relaxing and thought provoking. Dads with their sons fishing, moms riding bikes while pulling sleeping infants in a trailer behind them, and the ongoing excitement of little league baseball and soccer matches, is a constant reminder of how fun time with the kids can be. At least when they are young...

Raising children in the year 2022 is not always a walk in the park - More than ever our children need their parents to be role models, people they can trust, look up to and imitate in word and action. This responsibility, unlike rock stars, pro athletes, and movie stars is not an option but a primary obligation of parenthood. A question that is often asked is how and what should we do?

It starts with time in the park - When children are young, and most dependent upon their parents for answers to questions, safety, food and comfort, they need time with you. They learn mostly from imitation, your honesty and the time you are willing to just be with them. Your perspective on life will dictate what they will expect of others, and of themselves. Obedience begins with respect and respect is born out of love. A child should want to do what is asked of them for what they have already been given, not out of fear for what might be taken away!

Life's Lesson through sports - I stopped for a while to watch a soccer scrimmage of children in one of the fields. The true spirit of competition was evident even if the skill and the strategy of the game was nonexistent. The ball was like a magnet attracting all the players, except the goalies, gathered in a circle around it to where ever it was propelled by the lucky foot that struck it. The audible screams and yells of encouragement in hopes that somehow the ball would find its way past a preoccupied goalie (more interested in picking the dandelions that grew in her crease) was a constant reminder to the players that they were loved. Sports can build character only if the parents teach the proper lesson: It is not winning or losing that counts but accepting the uncontrollable outcome. This is the reality of life for children and adults. One must put their best foot forward not expecting success, but making the best of what life deals us. It is how well we adapt to accepting what we cannot control in life that builds character.

God should be a matter of fact not a Boogeyman - Just as the color of one's eyes is obvious and the air we breathe is, God should be that natural and necessary. Parents must make God a loving presence that children grow to know as a friend and a guide through life, not a boogeyman that waits to pounce on those who do not adhere to His teaching. Going to Mass should be presented as the most important hour spent with family; a nurturing occasion of love, and not a chore or obligation feared not to fulfill. Talking about the weekly readings and the homily on the way home from church, and trying, as a family, to live the message, is a simple way to make Christ matter of fact and a friend that is welcome.

Adult Children need the same care - Parents do not stop being parents when their children are grown and “living” on their own. Advice, counsel, and reminders of what they have experienced as a child still applies to them in their adult life and often helps them to base adult decisions on a well-formed conscience. We cannot think for them nor make their decisions, however we must be a constant reminder to them of who they are and what they should become: faith filled, faith guided lovers of Christ, who never walk alone in the park of life, their journey home to the heavenly kingdom.

In all your efforts to protect, nurture, love and guide your children, remember the only thing that you can really give them is faith and the ticket to the gift of eternal life.

I guess my Thoughts while walking in the park was more of a reflection on my childhood than a lesson to share. My mom was these things for me in my life, she always had time to spend, encouragement to share, lessons of life to teach as well as a love of God to instill in my heart. So, my priesthood reflects the life that was shared with me by my parents... so last Sunday I was able to say... thanks mom... Happy Mother's Day!

FINAL NOTE: “MOMISMS”

My mom was always sharing words of wisdom with me on my journey through life. Some of them were the typical things all mom's ought to say to their children but some of them are unique and completely my mom's beautiful perspective of how to live life fully under the constant guide of the Catholic influence. I shared these in my homily last Sunday but I think that they are worth repeating.

“I have a funny feeling about that” – This, I am sure, is known as mother's intuition.

Mom's can sense dangerous situations that children desire to enter into without recourse. Like going on a water-skiing trip with an alcoholic neighbor skipping the boat. Many other times mom would express that feeling and I learned that it was better to go with her feeling than my reckless nature

If your friends want to jump off the bridge.... Then stay off the bridge.” - This was a lesson in avoiding peer pressure situations that no good could come from. If you don't go with that group of kids to the bridge then there would be no danger of being tempted to jump. That bridge could be an abandon coal mine, local bar that served minors or the late-night car races on back streets.

“Every near occasion of sin is also an occasion of love”. – instead of looking at situations as potential occasions to sin see them as occasions of love instead. When one refrains from sin they make an act of love to God! An occasion of sin could be to gossip about a person or one could instead give a compliment of being patient with their weaknesses.

“Never take the place of Honor but that of valor” – When playing baseball to lead off or bat fourth were the places in the order of Honor. Batting 5th, according to my mother was the place of Valor for if two players fail at the plate before you then you have a chance to pick them up and have the inning continue.

“If you get hit in the face, turn the other cheek and put your head down and drive for the basket.” – My mom learned that it was hard for me to control my emotions at times during a heated basketball game. She knew that elbows intentionally flew and retaliation was the recourse that ended up as a personal foul. So, turning the other cheek was a way to ignore the insult of aggression and going strong to the basket and scoring was the way to neutralize the situation. This works in every aspect of life as well. Criticism, ridicule and jealousy could make one cower away instead of taking it with humility as a challenge to still succeed.

“Always a Catholic First” – You are a Catholic before everything else. So, if a college student, be the best Catholic college student. If a gas station attendant be the best Catholic gas station attendant. Be the best Catholic friend, neighbor and witness all of the time.

“Don't feel sorry for yourself only babies do that to get attention.” Mom would say use the time of sorrow, pain, frustration and disappointment as a time of prayer and in thanksgiving for the days that were filled with good health and pleasure.

“Offer it up for the poor souls in purgatory.” Every pain, misfortune, anxiety and frustration can be tempered by knowing that the souls in purgatory can benefit with your offering of these challenges as a blessing of Grace. Human suffering is a reminder of the fallen nature and the need to purify the soul in offerings of weakness.

Anthony Longo (grade 6) participated in the Phipps Fairchild Challenge #2 - Art and Writing contest in November 2021. The title of the challenge was Plant Love Stories. The challenge was to write a short story or poem about a plant that has shaped the student's life or that holds meaning to them. Additionally, the students were asked to create an art piece to go with the story. Anthony's story was selected by Phipps Conservatory to be featured in their blog in February and was a featured Plant Love Story Valentine. Anthony's story and artwork were chosen to be featured on the Allegheny Front Environmental Radio Show and in their publications in the next few weeks. On April 22, a reporter at the Allegheny Front Environmental Radio Show, Kara Holsopple, and one of the organizers of Plant Love Stories, Bonnie McGill, visited Queen of Angels to record Anthony reading his story and to interview him about the inspiration for his story. Anthony eloquently read his story and answered a variety of questions about his work. Ms. Holsopple and Ms. McGill were very impressed with Anthony and his work!

VOCATIONS PRAYER

Lord Jesus, raise up from our homes those called by the Father:
courageous and humble men to the Priesthood, generous servants to the Permanent Diaconate, faithful people to Consecrated Life, and holy men and women to the Sacrament of Marriage.
Holy Spirit, help us to live our universal vocation to holiness by listening to the Father's voice and responding with a sacrificial love. Holy Mary, Model of vocations, pray for us.

THE LITURGY OF THE WORD

FIRST READING

Acts 14:21-27

After Paul and Barnabas had proclaimed the good news to that city and made a considerable number of disciples, they returned to Lystra and to Iconium and to Antioch. They strengthened the spirits of the disciples and exhorted them to persevere in the faith, saying, "It is necessary for us to undergo many hardships to enter the kingdom of God." They appointed elders for them in each church and, with prayer and fasting, commended them to the Lord in whom they had put their faith. Then they traveled through Pisidia and reached Pamphylia. After proclaiming the word at Perga they went down to Attalia. From there they sailed to Antioch, where they had been commended to the grace of God for the work they had now accomplished. And when they arrived, they called the church together and reported what God had done with them and how he had opened the door of faith to the Gentiles.

The Word of the Lord.
Thanks be to God.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Psalm 145

Howard Hughes

I will praise your name forever, my king and my God.

SECOND READING

Revelation 21:1-5a

Then I, John, saw a new heaven and a new earth. The former heaven and the former earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. I also saw the holy city, a new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, "Behold, God's dwelling is with the human race. He will dwell with them and they will be his people and God himself will always be with them as their God. He will wipe every tear from their eyes, and there shall be no more death or mourning, wailing or pain, for the old order has passed away." The One who sat on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new."

The Word of the Lord.
Thanks be to God.

GOSPEL READING John 13:31-33a, 34-35

When Judas had left them, Jesus said, "Now is the Son of Man glorified, and God is glorified in him. If God is glorified in him, God will also glorify him in himself, and God will glorify him at once. My children, I will be with you only a little while longer. I give you a new commandment: love one another. As I have loved you, so you also should love one another. This is how all will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another."

The Gospel of the Lord.
Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ.

CREED

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible. I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father; through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation he came down from heaven, and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man. For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end. I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets. I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and life of the world to come. Amen.
