READINGS FOR THE 29TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

October 21, 2018

“Can you drink the cup that I drink?” This question posed by Jesus to James and John is in reality an invitation to us all. To drink of the cup of Christ is to say YES to a life spent in loving service to God and one another. As we prepare to celebrate these sacred mysteries, let us place ourselves in the presence of our God who loves and cares for us.

The focus of the readings is the difficult message that suffering, willingly accepted in an attitude of service, can be a means of salvation. The servant in Isaiah gives his life for sins of others, and “his suffering will save many people.” Jesus presents the same challenge. It is the servant, not the powerfully rulers, who image of life of Jesus. It is the servant, whose life is given willingly, who saves many people. The readings present the profound mystery of salvation through suffering.

Isaiah 53:10-11

Through his suffering, my servant shall justify many.

- When have you experienced suffering?

Hebrews 4:14-16

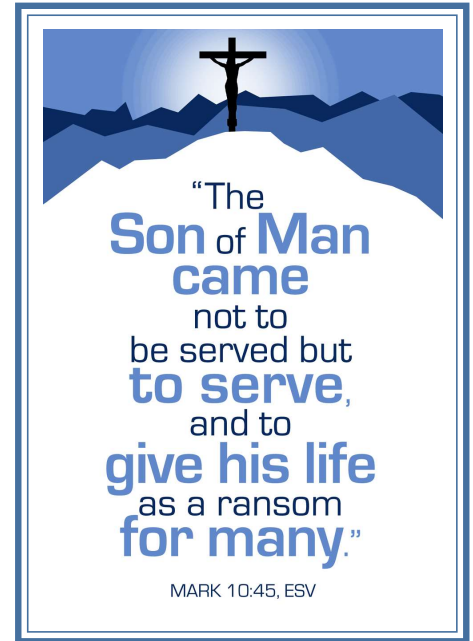

We have a great high priest who has passed through the heavens.

- How do you understand the “mystery of salvation through suffering”?

Mark 10:35-45

The Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve.

- Who have you met or known who best exemplifies a person who seeks to serve rather than be served?

Why does God allow suffering? Why are people “put to the test” by God? Why is suffering part of how our sins are forgiven and we are restored to good relationship with God? All three of next week’s Sunday Mass Readings, for the 29th Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year B, speak of suffering as part of the Christian life, part of being a baptized disciple who enters into the glory of Jesus’ eternal reign in heaven.

In the first reading the Messiah is described by the prophet Isaiah as one who would “give his life as an offering for sin” and because of this “the will of the Lord shall be accomplished through him. Because of his affliction he shall see the light in fullness of days; through his suffering, my servant shall justify many, and their guilt he shall bear.” In the second reading, from the Letter to the Hebrews, we read that our great high priest, Jesus, “has... been tested in every way, yet without sin.” Finally, in the Gospel, Jesus tells James and John, who wanted to have the top two places with Jesus in his glory, that in addition to drinking the cup that He would drink – ultimately a cup of suffering – they would need to be the servant and slave of the others.

So, again, suffering and servitude are hallmarks of a Christian disciple, of a disciple of the Jewish Messiah and Son of God. But, why must it be that way?

God is amazing in His works. As St. Paul says in the very first chapter of his Letter to the Romans, “[God’s] eternal power and glory [His divinity] can be clearly seen in the things that God has made” (Romans 1:20). Yet the two most amazing aspects of God’s works in which we as human beings are privileged to participate are the gifts of freedom and of God’s mercy! We are not forced to love God. We were not created as robots programmed to respond only in one way. We were given the capacity to choose for God in freedom. To help with exercising that free choice to love God, God has offered us the additional gift of His mercy. We are unique in all of creation in that way.

God created us with a capacity to love, which includes the possibility of weakness. Yet, God is nevertheless able to “sympathize with our weakness” because Jesus, too, was tested in every way as we human beings are. Jesus’ response to the testing that each one of us faces was to do so without sin. “So,” as the author the Letter to the Hebrews concludes in verse 16 of chapter 4, “let us confidently approach the throne of grace to receive mercy and to find grace for timely help.”

The suffering in which Jesus invites His disciples to participate is the suffering of freedom and of love and of mercy, not a suffering of meaningless weakness. Whatever weaknesses we may find ourselves facing, Jesus invites us to see that He has suffered that very same kind of testing and weakness. He invites us then to turn to Him for timely help in facing that weakness, so that it may be transformed into a mercy-giving and eternal-life-giving testing; so that it may be transformed into a truly meaningful weakness. That weakness can be transformed into something that participates in and becomes a vehicle for the most amazing aspect of God’s creation – His mercy!

May the Lord help us to experience transformation of our lives in Christ by helping us to experience the ultimate transformation of our weaknesses!

Pastor’s Letter

Our connection with the Diocese of Steubenville has been reinforced strongly these past few weeks. As many of you know, we are hosting the annual Diocesan Youth Rally at St. Benedict Gym and Church today, Sunday, October 14. Thank you to all who are pitching in to make this event happen. I thank Lois George and Conn’s potato chips for donating several boxes of chips for today’s lunch for the students. Also a number of volunteers from our parish, together with Pat Farley, our DRE, have been preparing for the event. May the Rally be a blessed experience for all who participate.

We are in the final month of the 2018 Diocesan Parish Share Campaign. It is interesting to me that participation in this has been higher throughout the diocese in spite of negative news about the finances of our diocese. We still need to make our goal for this year. A number of parishioners make contributions to the DPSC as year end tax deductible donations. If you haven’t participated yet please prayerfully consider doing so. We will have the envelopes and brochures in the pews again next week.

May the Lord help us all to journey in faith together ever more joyfully and courageously, always ready for the gift of eternal life.

RED RIBBON

Christ Our Light Parish will participate in Red Ribbon Week, a national drug and alcohol addiction prevention awareness campaign, by making medicine disposal pouches available after all Masses on October 27 & 28. The goal is to keep prescription medication out of the wrong hands by disposing of them properly.
