FROM THE WORKBENCH

Retreats were a new experience for me when I started my path to the priesthood. The first official retreat I attended was a Fellowship Of Catholic University Students (FOCUS) retreat at Broomtree Retreat Center. It was a whole new experience.

The people were great, the talks and prayer times were moving and the accommodations were very good but for me the experience was a strange combination of the very familiar elements of our Catholic Faith being received in a whole new way. I experienced the faith not just as something to be done, but something to be lived and I knew everything was going to be different after that. But it took stopping and praying to know. Sometimes you have to retreat to go forward.

In our Gospel this weekend Jesus goes from preaching in the Synagogue to healing a multitude of people without breaking a sweat, however we see that before he goes on to preach the next day he retreats to a lonely place to pray. Jesus needed to keep in communication and communion with His Father so he would have the strength to do what he was sent to do.

We all have tasks here on earth that we have been given to do; stopping and talking to our heavenly Father will give us the guidance and the grace we need to accomplish them. Whether we seek that guidance on a retreat, or in the quiet of our room, when we seek the Lord he will be there to lead the way.
