Fr. Michael's Musings

This time of year, filled with Confirmation and Graduation, First Communions and Ordinations, Weddings and transitions, I often think about the back of the den door in my parent's house.

There, year by year, the height of their children is marked and I can look at that door and see my growth from a small kindergarten student, to a high school student.

I have grown more since then, of course, and horizontally as well as vertically, but other than those marks, I have no real recollection of becoming 6'3.

It just happened, slowly. I grew up.

We all grow up. We all grow, slowly and imperceptibly. Yet, grow we do.

Growth is all around us, outside in the spring-time delight, around us in those transitioning, and inside as well.

Now is a fantastic time to look back and see the growth within, how you have changed. Not all of this is bad, in fact, most of it is wonderful.

Yes, I may creak more when walking, or groan when I sit, and those pounds hold on with impossible vigor, and hair gives up easily, but I am still growing, changing, and the possibilities of life are always there.

It is a gift of the Holy Spirit, who guides, directs and blesses us with growth. We are better, each day...and holier, and more loving...each day.
