Fr. Michael's Musings

A few days ago, as I was driving back to Aberdeen following my two week training time, I drove through some road construction.

That, of course, is not uncommon this time of year. But what was uncommon was the moment I took to think of those men and women out there, in the heat and humidity, laying cement and hot tar, and I was grateful for them.

We are blessed by so many who labor in the summer heat, in fields, on our roofs, on our roads, but we can take this act of service for granted., or see them as an inconvenience and move along.

Or, we can remember these summer months, to be grateful and more loving to those around us. Use these lovely weeks to help change your awareness and change the world. Let the inconveniences of life become an opportunity for gratitude, that we have food to eat, roofs over our heads, roads to drive upon, all from the labor and sweat of others.

Reach out in love to someone who is homebound, reach out to a distant friend, visit a neighbor, offer a prayer for safety and gratitude as you pass the road workers and farmers in the field.

Be loved...and then be love this summer.

Just a Thought...

I'm thinking it's a little more than knee-high
