Fr. Michael's Musings

The other day I had the opportunity to go to Storybook Land and it had been a while since I had been there.

As I watched the children run from place to place over the beautiful grass and the wonderful displays, I kept thinking about how much Fr. Mark Axtmann enjoyed taking his nephew and nieces there a few weeks ago.

What a gift this is to our city, and a great reminder that a community is more than just a geographical area, it is a place where we continue to strive to become better, stronger.

What makes a city a home is the commitment of its citizens to beauty, art, play, socializing and the future.

Storybook Land is an example of our brothers and sisters working together to have a place to enjoy today, but also to commit to the future of our city.

The same can be said of the upcoming Brown County Fair. In a time when these events are dying, we strive to have this time to showcase excellence, enjoy the days, be entertained and be together.

The same can be said of our upcoming parish Bazaar. It is a gift we give to one another and to the city we love. When your participation letter arrives, don't ponder and debate...just say "yes" and help. We joyfully receive the gift of your help.

Storybook Land, the Fair, our Bazaar, institutions that make Aberdeen a great city in which to live.
