It just needs to be said...thank you.

Sunday night I was lying in bed, tired and my feet hurt, but I could not fall asleep. All I could think about was the experience I had over the weekend.

I have been going to bazaars all my life, but a person tends to forget what is involved in making one happen. It was amazing, and not the bazaar, but everyone who worked so hard, and who came to have some fun and some food.

This, on top of some beautiful Masses over the weekend; such great celebrations of love and life and family.

As I lay in bed all I could do was think about how blessed I am to be the pastor of Saint Mary's Parish.

I really, really am; so simply, but honestly, thank you...for being you!

Just a Thought...

It huffed and it puffed, but I live in a brick house.

"This part of the ride always creeps me out."
