

Gospel

His slaves said to him, 'Do you want us to go and pull them up?' He replied, 'No, if you pull up the weeds you might uproot the wheat along with them. Let them grow together until harvest... Just as weeds are collected and burned up with fire, so will it be at the end of the age. The Son of Man will send his angels, and they will collect out of his kingdom all who cause others to sin and all evildoers. They will throw them into the fiery furnace, where there will be wailing and grinding of teeth.'

Mt 13:28b-30a & 40-42

From the Pastor

Dear parishioners,

Saturday, the 15th, the Los Angeles Times carried what I consider to be a very well written article about Anaheim, California removing the benches from bus stop shelters "because of complaints about the homeless population around Disneyland." The author quoted many people's viewpoints about the homeless and the removal of the benches without judgement. I'm not one who says that that is what all news reporting should be but, in this instance, it allows a look at the breadth of the problem without turning some people off before seeing that breadth.

Homelessness is more than just a problem for the homeless. The article states that the complaints were about vagrants drinking, defecating or smoking pot. The complaints were from small shop owners and motel owners. It's easy, and probably correct, to imagine that they were passing on complaints from their customers. The homeless don't have an appropriate place to do the things these complaints are made of. We, in contrast, have our homes and are welcomed in to public facilities.

The homeless don't feel welcomed. One of the homeless who was interviewed explained, "When we have a few dollars, we can't even enter the store to buy a piece of food," he said. "Some people thought the bus stop would be a good place to crash. No one welcomes us because of who we are and how we look. They have no clue how we ended up here, they just judge." The homeless are people, people with a story. I'm convinced they are the ones The Sheep and The Goats story of Matthew 25 is talking about.

Homelessness is an increasingly big problem. The article states that 15,300 people were unsheltered last year in Orange County. I'm surprised and appalled by the number of people living on the streets. Comparatively, a survey in January found 5,621 people were unsheltered in San Diego County. The survey noted that homelessness increased in San Diego by 5% which is, I think, about double the rate of increase from the prior year.

Governments are trying to do something about the problem. The reporter interviewed Orange County's director of care coordination who said most cities don't have the capacity to respond effectively and said they are trying to build a combined, coordinated approach taking into account the different causes of homelessness. It's obvious there is concern for the problem as is also evidenced, in our area, by the San Diego and East County homeless task forces.

The long-term solution is a long way off. The head of one of the non-profits which works with the homeless said, "The ultimate solution is permanent supportive housing. When we interact with someone, we need to provide immediate relief and then we sit down to assess each person and come up with a plan to give them better quality of life." By-the-way, note how this proposed solution is a middle-class solution to be imposed on a person living in poverty. Don't you think a plan developed by the person in poverty, if he or she is mentally/emotionally capable of it, has a better chance of being acted upon by the person in poverty?

The homeless will choose from among the solutions open to them. One of the homeless interviewed said, "We'll just stretch out on the concrete. That's the way we are - we improvise." People in poverty are problem solvers; that's oftentimes what they spend their day doing. But, they can only solve problems with the solutions that are open to them. The article points out that it wasn't the benches, so much, that were important to the homeless but the shade provided by the shelter. Maybe there is another way to provide them with shade.

One of the problems, it seems to me, is that we too easily blame the homeless for their homelessness. We forget that we closed the mental institution in the 1960's when there were over 600,000 housed in those institutions. We put those people on the streets with promises of community mental health centers, a promise that was never fully funded. We forget that we sent them to wars putting them in situations which resulted in an overwhelming number of cases of PTSD. We forget that many people in our culture don't have access to the resources that allow us to make the right decisions that keep us from being on the streets.

Homelessness is not just a problem for the homeless and the problem was not caused just by poor decisions made by the homeless. It's our problem and we, corporately, are part of the cause. We, with them, need to be part of the solution in the manner of working together, in the manner of Christian caring for one another. Remember our Lord's law of love.

In His service,

Fr. Ron

Gospel Meditation, Live the Liturgy & Why Do We Do That

Dear Fellow Parishioners,

Under normal circumstances, Debbie and I like to send out individual thank you notes after receiving a gift or other kind act. However, the overwhelming response we received following the sudden and tragic loss of our dear daughter-in-law makes that task impossible. Debbie and I would like to sincerely thank you for all that you have done for us and our family in this difficult time. By all that you have done, you have shown in a most profound way what discipleship is all about. We have been lifted by your prayers, expressions of love, support and outreach. Our parish is truly special and that is because of all of you.

God Bless you all.

Deacon Jerry & Debbie Stenovec

GOSPEL MEDITATION: 16th Sunday in Ordinary Time

"The weeds are the children of the evil one, and the enemy who sows them is the devil." This is not a pretty picture. Jesus shares a parable in today's Gospel that reminds us of a truth we would rather forget: evil is real, and the devil is at work. The bountiful harvest of our faith is something that Satan wants to destroy. And he has a host of diabolical tactics to help him carry out his wicked plans. But there is one strategy in particular that we must be on guard against.

As the French poet Charles Baudelaire put it, "The devil's finest trick is to persuade you that he does not exist." Sneaky as it may be, this approach is effective! And, unfortunately, the attitude of our modern era is very conducive to buying the lie. Too often we dismiss the idea of the invisible spiritual reality of angels and demons. It doesn't seem "scientific" enough for us because it can't be seen or "proven." But neither can our faith! We believe in a host of invisible realities starting with God himself. We should not be fooled into thinking that the devil is a make-believe cartoon character with red horns and a pitchfork on his shoulder. Alas, no. As the "Catechism of the Catholic Church" reminds us, "Scripture witnesses to the disastrous influence of the one Jesus calls 'a murderer from the beginning'" (CCC 394) and, as we read in the Bible, "Indeed, the Son of God was revealed to destroy the works of the Devil" (1 Jn 3:8). This is not pretend, and so it must be taken seriously. But so too, the reality of Satan must be situated within the broader context of God's supreme power. The devil "cannot prevent the building up of God's reign" (CCC 395). The influence of evil can never defeat the power of our faith, unless we let it do so.

LIVE THE LITURGY - INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK

Today we are presented with the parable of the weeds and the wheat. We struggle with the imperfection that exists in our world. This imperfection shows itself in human sinfulness with its consequences--disease, natural disasters, suffering, and even death. We wonder why God did not simply make everything perfect right from the beginning so that harmony, peace, and tranquility would be the norm. God builds free will into us and into our world so that we can learn to freely love him. Anything less than this would not provide the freedom to choose to acknowledge and develop our relationship with our Creator. For now, the weeds and the wheat must coexist. Our faith teaches us that we live and walk in hope that when the harvest comes only the wheat of God's love will remain.

WHY DO WE DO THAT? - CATHOLIC TRADITIONS EXPLAINED

Question: July 26 is the feast of Joachim and Anna. Who are they and what do we know about them?

Answer: Joachim and Anna are the parents of Mary, the mother of Jesus, yet there is absolutely no biblical reference to them whatsoever. So where do we get their names, and what is their story? Their names are found in an apocryphal gospel known as "The Infancy Gospel of James." Apocryphal, or hidden, gospels consist of accounts of Jesus' life that were ultimately not accepted as inspired works, and thus were not included in the Bible. However, they sometimes captured the Christian imagination, spilling into the devotional dimension of the community.

James' infancy gospel begins with the parents of Mary and their desire for a child. In their prayer and petitions to God, they are heard and given the blessings of a child, whom they named Mary. The fact that we celebrate the feast of Joachim and Anna indicates that the bond of family love is important in the Christian life. Long before Grandparents' Day was established, the church had a feast that honored the presumed grandparents of Jesus. While their names are part of non-inspired apocryphal legends, the Savior's human ancestry is not. Christ, the incarnate Word, dwelt among us in the flesh in a human family. In honoring the grandparents of Jesus we really proclaim our faith in the Incarnation--God becoming human!
