Gospel

Tell us, then, what is your opinion: Is it lawful to pay the census tax to Caesar or not?" Knowing their malice, Jesus said, "Why are you testing me, you hypocrites? Show me the coin that pays the census tax." Then they handed him the Roman coin. He said to them, "Whose image is this and whose inscription?" They replied, "Caesar's." At that he said to them,

"Then repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God."

From the Pastor

Dear parishioners,

I'm writing on Tuesday, the day I volunteer at Desayunador (The Breakfast Hall) in Tijuana. This morning, a young man, a regular, sat without eating his food. When the other five at his table finished and left, he just sat there. Another worker, maybe concerned that we had to get the table ready for another group, suggested that he get in line where they turn in their plates and cups and toss out any trash.

He never made it to the line. He sat down at another table where someone had left and just sat there with his food in front of him, undisturbed. The other worker said she had never seen him before but I know him as the young man who never responds. Because of what I do there, I speak to all of the tables. He looks at me intently when I am at his table but never says anything, just looks. It doesn't seem to me to be an empty stare. He seems to get what I say and think about it but never responds.

The cool thing about today happened at the second table. When the other four sitting there had left and the last of his table mates was getting up to leave, she looked at him and then sat down right across from him. She leaned toward him and started talking to him and he began to eat. She stayed with him until he finished and then directed him through the exit line.

Another worker and I talked about it and agreed that he never seems to be on drugs, like the "druggies", although he might be on medication. If so, it's not enough medication that he is completely out of it. He is always clean and well groomed, so he probably doesn't live on the street. He just seems to be a nice young man, about seventeen or eighteen, but he really needed help today.

I don't know if the lady who helped him knew him. It didn't appear so since she didn't talk to him until the end. The other people at his table didn't talk to him either but when they were ready to leave, they left. This lady stopped and sat down again and, it seems to me, offered him a kindness must have made the start of his day better whether he knew it or not.

Whether he was mentally aware of that fact that she did a kindness to him or not, he probably didn't thank her. Like I said, he doesn't respond. And that is one of the reasons I think the lady's act was exceptional. She had to know that he was unresponsive and so didn't do the act in order to get his thanks. She must have simply done it out of concern for him. How wonderful and how pure.

She also has no way of knowing that I prayed for her tonight. I prayed for him too. I prayed that God would keep sending angels to him and help me know how to make his life better when I interact with him. I prayed that God would simply bless her and give her an abundant return for what she did. Here is a person who must have very little herself, or she wouldn't be eating at Desayunador, yet she gave him what she did have... love.

In His service,

Fr. Ron

GOSPEL MEDITATION: 27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

"Then repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God." The Pharisees, full of malice, were trying to "entrap Jesus in speech." They concocted a question that flattered him, saying, "You teach the way of God in accordance with the truth," but which also put him in a position to be in big trouble if he challenged the Roman laws. Jesus, of course, escaped the trap with his brilliant reply. We can appreciate the wisdom of his response, but more importantly, we can appreciate what it means for us. To repay to Caesar, in this case, meant to give appropriate allegiance to the secular authorities. We too are under such authority, and although Uncle Sam is different than Caesar in countless ways, the fact remains that as constituents of this country who enjoy its many benefits, we are also called to extend a certain kind of tribute to our government. Taxes, yes, but more than that too. The loyalty and patriotism that offers our gifts in service to the good of our nation is also a tribute we Christians should make in good faith. Only when a law of our land contradicts the moral principles of God do we have to follow our primary allegiance instead, namely, our allegiance to Christ. Unfortunately, in our day we live under certain national laws that do conflict with the truth about human dignity, and thus a tension exists for us. But the course is clear. We must repay "to God what belongs to God" by defending the truth even when it may be unpopular. This kind of courage is what built the Church in those early centuries of persecution when practicing our faith was against the law. Heaven forbid this should ever happen to us. But if it does, we know what must be done.

LIVE THE LITURGY - INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK

If the coin belongs to Caesar, then give it to him. Paying taxes is often unpleasant, but requires little self-investment. We know that a portion of our income must go back to the government, but what then, exactly, belongs to God? God does not seek our financial resources. What belongs to God is something that we sometimes want to keep to ourselves or divide in different places. What belongs to God is our hearts. We owe everything to God, even our very being. Without God we are nothing. God patiently continues to tell the world: "I am the LORD and there is no other, there is no God besides me." How do we unite the varied allegiances of our hearts into one under God?

WHY DO WE DO THAT? - CATHOLIC TRADITIONS EXPLAINED

Question: To solve the shortage of priests in this country, why can't we bring in priests from other countries where they have enough?

Answer: This is a common question that makes one wonder, where exactly is this country where there are so many priests? The place does not exist, but it raises some interesting issues, including people's attitudes towards priests. Firstly, diocesan priests are ordained for a diocese to serve the needs of their own people. Much of their ministry is based on a knowledge of cultural norms, customs and values. They are called from their local communities to serve local needs. They are not all foreign missionaries. Secondly, Americans often assume wrongly that people of other nations are anxious to come to the US. Priests, like any of us, want to be close to family and friends and do not necessarily see us as having the land of wonder and opportunity. Thirdly, the priesthood is changing and people need to adapt. In the short-term, things will be difficult. There may not always be a Mass in your parish every day or even every week. In the long run, the Holy Spirit will have to show us what we are to do. Fourth, ministry is everyone's responsibility, so get involved! Finally, show your appreciation and concern for the priests we do have. They have a tough job and it is not getting any easier.

Parish Information

~ Parish Pastoral Council Update ~

New to this fine group of lay ministry leaders, but not to our parish family are:

Teresa Dodd-Butera & Tony Camara

Both Teresa and Tony's families have been valuable members of St. Luke's family since July 1994 and June 1996 respectively. We thank them for responding to the call of discipleship and are confident they will serve our parish well.

Please join us in also thanking two wonderful leaders for their past service on Council:

Dave & Karen Sapper

Going back to 2006, the Sappers have shared their gifts of talent, time, and service, one being in the parish planning process. Through their strong leadership, Dave and Karen will continue to grow and enhance our parish outreach efforts in the years to come. In fact, their service and commitment to our parish and the community-at-large will be recognized at an upcoming Matthew 25 Recognition Dinner which links the work Dave and Karen are doing to the mission of Catholic Charities. What a blessing!
