

Welcome to

The Church of Saint Luke

A Roman Catholic Community of Disciples

FIRST READING: Deuteronomy 4:32-34, 39-40
SECOND READING: Romans 8:14-17
GOSPEL: Matthew 28:16-20

"Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, until the end of the age."

Reflection:

Who should you be making a disciple of? What should you, or do you, teach them about being a disciple? How do you, or can you, teach them about being a disciple? How is the Lord with you in this work?

Alternative:

Who is the best example of discipleship in your life? How are they a good example of discipleship? How can you be a better disciple?

From the Pastor

Dear Parishioners,

Since its inception, I've been intrigued by rap music and hip hop. Oftentimes I don't understand the words and sometimes when I do, they frighten me. Oftentimes it doesn't sound like music to me but both have a certain rhythm, changes in the volume and accompanying sounds that combine to create mood or feeling. The sounds of the words together, sometimes rhyming, seem to contain more meaning than any tune that might be present.

Check out a song called "Where every breath is a prayer". Whether you understand the words or not, it feels like a meditation; maybe we can use it at Mass someday? I found it because I Googled "every breath is a prayer". That's what I wanted to write about this week and I wanted to see what other people are saying. You can find a book by the same title as the song and a couple of discussions as to whether "breath prayer" is biblical or not.

Evidently, when some think of every breath being a prayer they think of meditation, or contemplation if you are from a Western religious tradition. That's not what I had in mind. And I think there are others who think the way I do because when I used the words in a homily recently I was greeted with nods of agreement.

You see, I define prayer as dialoguing with God. Yes I believe you can pray to saints but I believe praying to saints is, in effect, dialoguing with God. God started the dialogue by creating us. And, if he started the dialogue by creating us then the way we live the life He has given us is a response to that opening statement. That opening statement, by the way, is "I love you" and I feel pain for people who don't experience their existence as a message of love from their creator.

If the way we live our lives is, in fact, a response to God's first, and ongoing, message of love to us then even the bad we do is part of our prayer. That is important to realize. It seems that many of us think we can hide our bad acts from God or that the bad is something we do when we are not in God's presence. That's not true; every act, good or bad, is a part of our prayer. And God responds to every act, good or bad. If we open ourselves to His constant presence in our lives, he affirms the good and lovingly calls us away from the bad. If we reflect on the areas of our life wherein we have grown, as human beings, we can see His action.

I think this is the most basic form of spirituality and all other prayer forms should flow from it and support it. We all know people who devote themselves to spiritual practices, are active in the Church and are the experience of God's love to us. Others seem to devote themselves to the same spiritual practices and activities but can't seem to get the most basic practice of living as a Christian right, living and being God's love. I would propose that the first group makes every breath a prayer whether they practice contemplation or not.

My guess is that the second group, in the paragraph above, focuses on spiritual practices and Church activities as a way of avoiding the kind of relationship with God which results in real growth, whether they know it or not and whether that is what they are consciously trying to do or not. This is not a condemnation of them. For centuries we have taught spiritual practices and for centuries only a minority have discovered the connection between those practices and their day-to-day lives, their "every breath" if you will. It's up to us to help people bring the two together.

THE TRINITY IS LOVE

Theologians throughout the Christian centuries have spilled much ink (and, on occasion, some blood) in describing and defining the mystery of the Holy Trinity. One of the earliest, most poetic, and beautiful descriptions comes from St. Augustine in De Trinitas, wherein he describes the Trinity as One (the Father) who loves, One (the Son) who is loved, and One (the Spirit) who is love. And these three Ones are also one Three.

It might be wisest for us to leave the technical wranglings to the academic theologians, and focus on the fact that the three Persons of the Trinity are indeed persons; they are best known and understood in their love for each other and for us. We are made in the image of those loving persons, and our best relationships are lived out in the context of love. Truly loving relationships are inexhaustible mysteries to be lived in joy. If this is true of our human relationships, how much more so is it true of our relationship with the Trinity. And how much more does it call upon us to be joyful, loving witnesses of the holy mystery of the One-in-Three. This is the mystery to which we were called when we were chosen to be God's own, baptized with water in the name of the Holy Trinity.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

There are plenty of "treasures" in our tradition that if resurrected today would cause anxious moments for bishops! Many concern marriage. There was a time when the church "consecrated" both virgins dedicated to prayer and charity, and brides dedicated to husband and family. Virgins were blessed in the sanctuary of the church, and brides in the sanctuary of the home. The custom of blessing the bride in the marriage chamber was standard in England, Ireland, Spain, and France until the eleventh century.

If the groom (the groom's side planned the wedding) chose from the full menu of liturgy, there would be a blessing of the bridal room, solemn evening prayer on the eve and morning prayer on the day of the wedding, a blessing at the church door of the spouses, and then in the church for the wife alone during Mass, and Communion. After the feast, a priest would represent the bride's father in presiding over the legal process by which the bride transferred from her father's clan to her husband's. Some enduring customs harken back to these days when marriage was seen as a contract between men (the bride's father and the groom) and was not so much about living out one's baptismal call, and certainly not about the equality of the spouses in Christ. Happily, this baptismal focus has been restored and unhelpful customs set aside by today's marriage rite. —Rev. James Field, Copyright © J. S. Paluch Co.
