The Epiphany of the Lord
January 8, 2017

They opened their treasures and offered him gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. -- Matthew 2:11b

FIRST READING: Is 60:1-6; Ps 72:1-2, 7-8, 10-13

SECOND READING: Eph 3:2-3a, 5-6

GOSPEL: Mt.2:1-12

REFLECTION ON TODAY'S GOSPEL

When Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, in the days of King Herod, behold, magi from the east arrived in Jerusalem, saying, "Where is the newborn king of the Jews? We saw his star at its rising and have come to do him homage." When King Herod heard this, he was greatly troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. Mt 2:1-3

Reflection: Reflect upon/Share about a time when you were upset or worried about the arrival of a new person whom you felt would change things in your life. What were you afraid of losing? How did things work out in the end? If you let Jesus really be King in your life, what would you lose or gain?

Alternative: Reflect upon/share about how you were led to the Lord. What stars lighted the way for you? In what ways, or areas of your life, were you like Herod, resisting His reign? How have you done him homage? What gifts do you give him?

Mission Statement

From the Pastor

Dear Parishioners,

One of our parishioners asked me recently about the doxology for the Our Father, that's the "For the kingdom, the power and the glory are yours..." She said a friend from another Christian tradition had recently attended a Catholic Mass and accused us of stealing it from them. I know you know that's not right but I thought it would be interesting to learn a little more about it.

As I started my research I realized that the discussion about whether, or not, the doxology belongs on the end of the Our Father has been going on for quite some time. It seems to me that for some the issue is whether Jesus really taught the doxology or not. If that is the issue, how do we deal with the fact that, even in the King James version, it is not in Luke's Gospel (Lk 11:1-4); did Jesus teach two different versions? The difference in Matthew and Luke, by the way can probably be attributed to the fact that Jesus's teachings were transmitted orally before they were written down so we don't get an exact replication of His words. We do get how His teachings were lived out and experienced by the communities from which the written versions came.

Some communities probably used the doxology when they prayed but it wasn't new at the time of Christ. Most scholars say it comes from ancient Judaism and point to 1 Chronicles 29:11. The Jewish Encyclopedia of 1906 says it is used in Jewish ritual also. Jesus probably used it in His prayer life as was evidently common for Jews of His time, as it is today. He may have used it to finish the Lord's Prayer or he may not have. He may have used it to begin or finish other prayers. It seems to have been more than just a part of any specific prayer.

The Didache, The Teaching of the Twelve Apostles, which dates back to the first century concludes the Our Father with it. The two most ancient Greek manuscripts of Scripture which we have, Codex Vaticanus & Codex Sinaiticus, don't have it but one dated fifty or so years later does. Evidently, the liturgies of the early Church in the Eastern half of the Roman Empire ended the Our Father with it. The Churches in the Western half didn't. The Tridentine Mass of Pius V, 1570 - current, didn't use the doxology (The Tridentine Mass was prohibited when we started using the Mass of Paul VI in 1969 and then re-allowed as the extraordinary form by Pope Benedict the XVI in 2007.) Prior to the Tridentine Mass, some Churches, in union with Rome, evidently used the doxology and others didn't.

What does all this mean? First, I think it means that no one stole anything from anybody. We were taught it by a Jew, by Jesus, and some people use it to end the Lord's Prayer and some don't. It's always been that way. Does the doxology belong in the Gospel of Matthew? Maybe, maybe not. Most modern scholars believe it doesn't but it does exist in some important manuscripts. I think that knowing that it exists in some manuscripts should be enough. Should we use it to finish the Lord's Prayer? If you want. It doesn't really add to the concepts expressed by the Lord's Prayer but reaffirms them.

Did the Catholics stop using it and/or the Protestants start using it to separate ourselves from each other? I couldn't find any documentation of this but it seems to me implausible since part of the Catholic Church, the East, used it and the other part, the West, didn't. Also remember that the Tridentine liturgy came from the West part of the Church.

Why did the Catholics add it to the liturgy of Paul VI? I couldn't find any documentation on this either but remember that the new liturgy attempts to enhance participation by the people. Using the embolism, the part the priest says after the Our Father, and the doxology, said by all, enhances that participation.

In His service,

Fr. Ron

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM

The unfolding of the story of the Incarnation continues today as the Church celebrates the Epiphany. The tale of the magi from the East is one of the most fascinating in all of scripture. It has much to teach us about what we can come to expect, even in circumstances and places that may seem insignificant or small.

Bethlehem was a tiny town, what we might refer to today as a town without even one stop light. Yet it is over this seemingly insignificant place that the guiding star stops in its own search for the place where the Savior would be born. Too often we fail to recognize the fact that the star of Bethlehem comes to rest in our everyday lives, where we can experience God's presence, manifested in ever new ways. Epiphany calls us to shake off our stupor and recognize the One who comes to save us. Copyright (c) J. S. Paluch Co., Inc.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

This year, in the United States the celebration of the Epiphany falls on January 8, but the traditional date for the Epiphany is January 6. The date we know as January 6 was established as the solstice in Egypt in 1996 BC, but the Egyptian calendar lost a full day every 128 years. Twenty centuries later the actual solstice had migrated to December 25. People still kept January 6 for the solstice celebration, but December 25, matching nicely with the Roman pagan feast of the Unconquered Sun, launched an extended solstice holiday. By the time of the early church, the whole period of twelve days was celebrated just about everywhere.

Christians began to celebrate Christ as the true light of the world in four themes: the Nativity, the manifestation to the Gentiles, the baptism of the Lord, and the wedding feast at Cana. That was entirely too much for one day to handle. A twelve-day season was ready to be adapted, so Christians borrowed from the pagan calendar for their own season of light. Thus early Christian celebrations of the Christmas season extended from one date for the solstice, December 25, to the older date, January 6. The darkest time in the Northern Hemisphere could now be filled with the Christian observance of the arrival of the Light of the World. --Rev. James Field, Copyright (c) J. S. Paluch Co.
