From the Pastor...

Thoughts on the Sunday Liturgy Continue...

What is it that we do at liturgy? Justin Martyr in the Second Century describes it this way:

On the day called Sunday there is a meeting in one place of those who live in the cities or the country, and the memoirs of the apostles are read as long as time permits. Then we all stand up together and offer prayers. And when we have finished the prayer, bread is brought and wine and water, and the president similarly sends up prayers and thanksgiving to the best of his ability, and the congregation assents, saying the Amen. The distribution and reception of the consecrated elements by each takes place and they are sent to the absent by the deacons. Those who prosper, and who so wish, contribute, each as each chooses to. What is collected is deposited with the president, who takes care of orphans and widows, and those who are in want on account of sickness or any other cause, and those who are in bonds, and the strangers who are sojourners among us....

Using your imagination, place yourself in the assembly described. What does it look like? How does it feel? Who is doing what? What is the overall sense one gets of this assembly?

How do these images translate into our assembly here at San Roque and in the wider Church?

FR BRUCE

Look...

Sorrow looks back, worry looks around, faith looks up.
