SIXTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

All the readings on this Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time seem to address from one perspective or another the idea of "free will" as it goes hand in hand with "God's wisdom." St. Paul speaks to this ongoing philosophy and discussion of "free will" more than anyone else in Holy Scripture. However, as he points out in our Second Reading from his First Letter to the Corinthians, "We speak God's wisdom, mysterious, hidden, which God predetermined before the ages for our glory."

In addition to St. Paul, St. Augustine and St. Thomas Aquinas wrote volumes about the issue of "free will." The point of all of this is that on the one hand we are gifted with free will, but we must accept the reality that making the wrong moral decision has consequences. In our First Reading from the Book of Sirach, we hear "Before man are life and death, good and evil, whichever he chooses shall be given him." That is immediately followed by "Immense is the wisdom of the Lord."

We do have choices throughout our lives. One of those choices is pursuing stewardship as a way of life. One can choose to be a steward or choose not to. Nevertheless, if we look at it from the point of view of God's wisdom rather than ours, it really is not a choice at all. It is something we should and must practice. In a homily this past June, Pope Francis said, "You cannot love God without loving your brothers and sisters; in fact, you cannot love God without being an active participant in the Church."

Todas las lecturas de este Sexto Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario parecen abordar desde una perspectiva u otra la idea del "libre albedrío", ya que va de la mano con la "sabiduría de Dios". San Pablo habla de esta filosofía en curso y de la discusión de "libre Será "más que nadie en la Sagrada Escritura. Sin embargo, como señala en nuestra Segunda Lectura de su Primera Carta a los Corintios: "Hablamos la sabiduría de Dios, misteriosa, oculta, que Dios predeterminó antes de los siglos para nuestra gloria".

Además de San Pablo, San Agustín y Santo Tomás de Aquino escribieron volúmenes sobre el tema del "libre albedrío". El punto de todo esto es que por un lado estamos dotados con el libre albedrío, pero debemos aceptar el que la toma de una decisión moral equivocada tiene consecuencias. En nuestra Primera Lectura del Libro de Sirach, oímos "Antes de que el hombre sea vida y muerte, el bien y el mal, cualquiera que él elija se le dará". Esto es inmediatamente seguido por "Inmenso es la sabiduría del Señor".

Tenemos opciones a lo largo de nuestras vidas. Una de esas opciones es perseguir la mayordomía como una forma de vida. Uno puede elegir ser un mayordomo o elegir no hacerlo. Sin embargo, si lo miramos desde el punto de vista de la sabiduría de Dios en lugar de la nuestra, realmente no es una opción en absoluto. Es algo que debemos y debemos practicar. En una homilía del pasado mes de junio, el Papa Francisco dijo: "No puedes amar a Dios sin amar a tus hermanos y hermanas; De hecho, no puedes amar a Dios sin ser un participante activo en la Iglesia".
