Fr. Kevin's Reflection

Once A Catholic ... ?

They were all raised Catholic: the founder of the organization that is now Planned Parenthood (Margaret Sanger), the publisher of Penthouse (Bob Guccione) attempting to compete with Hugh Hefner's Playboy, and the dictator of Nazi Germany (Adolf Hitler). Their mothers were devout in the Faith but, somewhere along the way, these three strayed far, far, far from the path.

Sanger chose to devote her life to a cause rather than to the Cross. Guccione made a living out of censoring his conscience and baring the bodies of women on centerfolds. Hitler became so obsessed with his own ideology that he would twist even theology to suit his evil ends. Instead of joining the mission of sowing the seeds of the Gospel, these three historic figures went about planting the very weeds that divide us now.

How different would our world have been if they had stayed faithful to the Faith: countless lives would have been spared; sex would not be treated like a commodity and another person as an object to be used; pregnancy would not be cited as a curse.

But, the Church also asks us the question that Christ once posed to another crowd centuries ago: "What man among you having a hundred sheep and losing one of them would not leave the ninety-nine in the desert and go after the lost one until he finds it?" (cf. Lk. 15:4). The Church asks us this question because it seems (at least in the case of these three) that none had taken the risk to seek out the single sheep that was lost, to call home the one fellow who was once a Catholic. Each was left alone in the wilderness and somehow each one paved his own way: Hitler pursued his military campaigns, Guccione his voyeuristic compulsions, Sanger her contraceptive causes. The price for our negligence to evangelize with the right words, at the right moment, to the right person (who were our own) is staggering. It has amounted to a world war, a sexual revolution, and a culture of death.

We are reminded that there are consequences not only on what we have done but more so on what we have failed to do.

The Lord's question then challenges us to reexamine our conscience and to reevaluate our efforts. Christ demands that we not only provide what is enough for His flock; He expects us to go the extra mile (cf. Mt. 5:41). It is not enough that we lead lambs to the water. We also have to guide them through the dark valley and point out the path to the Lord's lush pastures (cf. Ps. 23:2, 4). It is not enough that we raise our children Catholic; we also have to help them find a home in the Church. It is not enough that we share with them our faith in God while they are young; we also have to show them at every age how best to serve Him.

The Good Shepherd, Himself, has given us a compelling example of caring for every sheep in His flock. He has set the standard that keeps none undersupplied. The way He sees it, none can be dismissed as a 'lost cause'; everyone counts and everyone is worth the risk and need us to pray for them.

As Catholics, we are called to live up to that standard. We are sent to seek out the sheep that has slipped silently away. History has shown that it is that 'lost sheep' that somehow manages to get the world, in a manner of speaking, to go to hell in a hand basket. We need to follow the example of Christ the Good Shepherd and risk life and limb to bring that lost sheep home; or else, we will all live to regret it.

Take a look at the beautiful artwork. Selling olive wood carvings in the U.S. has become the main source of income for about 600 Catholic families. For centuries, Bethlehem's Catholics supported their families by carving olive-wood religious items for visiting pilgrims. Because of conflict and continued persecution by groups such as ISIS, many stopped visiting the Holy Land. This means there is no source of income left for the Catholic families.

If every family here purchased just one item, no matter how small, this would make a huge difference to the Christian families in the Holy Land and it would be greatly appreciated. In this Mission, they accept cash, checks, and all credit cards. Please, they do not accept donations.

Natural Family Planning Awareness July 19-25, 2015

"I also know that there are great problems in the world- that many spouses do not love each other enough to practice natural family planning. We cannot solve all the problems in the world, but let us never bring in the worst problem of all, and that is to destroy love. And this is what happens when we tell people to practice contraception and abortion." Blessed Teresa of Calcutta

Now is the time to reflect upon our attitude towards marital love, responsibility, and children. The Church does not call us to decide our family size in a haphazard way. Rather, it calls us to discern and make wise decisions with generosity and trust in God's divine design for our families. Modern methods and NFP enable couples to plan their family in a healthy, drug free, and up to a 99% effective way. For more information on the gift of NFP, visit www.sfcatholic.org/respectlife.

Practicing NFP brings graces to your marriage and is a great avenue to improve communication with your spouse. It's been called "marriage insurance" by those who practice it. Learn the healthy and effective methods now available from trained instructors in your area.
