Some random thoughts by the pastor ...

We have the tendency to run away from pain and suffering. Pain and suffering, we are told and often we accept, aren't necessary. We can be free of all pain and suffering if we follow these instructions, take this pill, win the lottery, succeed without failure, make this novena, live spiritually and reject our bodies, and the list continues. The truth is, pain and suffering is a part of everyone's life. It is meant to be a part of everyone's life. Our reading this weekend from Job struggles with a view of God commonly accepted, and the way in which God relates with us based upon a theological perspective that God punishes the sinner and rewards the faithful who keep Torah (the Law). Job does nothing sinful, he keeps Torah, and still he experiences pain and suffering! Today's reading reveals Job in the mist of this struggle with pain and suffering, and his theological beliefs. He doesn't despair. He doesn't blame someone else. He, instead, waits (sometimes impatiently) in the 'storm' and there he meets God who undermines everything that Job believes to be true, and yet, Job knows peace! He acknowledges his inability to understand the mystery of God. He owns his shortcomings, limits, and his sinful over-reliance upon himself and his theology, and God is with him in his pain and suffering. This is the promise that God makes to us too. God is good.

Parish updates: We will be hosting our annual Missionary Appeal this weekend. We encourage your generosity. We are awaiting our annual report from the inspector who represents Catholic Mutual Insurance Company. Each year the buildings and Parish grounds are inspected and a report is filed. Most years we have some minor repairs to make. Emery Environment will be testing some material in the school building for asbestos. I'll pass along the results when we receive them and what we will need to do.
