32nd Sunday of Ordinary Time

Faith is our belief in God. Religion is the way we express it and theology is the way we explain it. So says the pastor. What is remarkable is that all three are interconnected. What we do in liturgy affects what we believe and how we explain it influences our faith. They are not three separate entities, but different aspects of our relationship with God. It makes a difference what religion we practice, how we practice it and how we explain it.

Jesus debates the Sadducees on their own terms. They do not believe in the resurrection or life after death. Using Scripture, Jesus deflects their question and focuses on what they have overlooked. God is the God of the living, proven by the words of Moses. God is in relationship with all His people, living and deceased.

It is easy to get lost in theological debate, trying to figure out if God exists, why evil happens and what will happen next. But all the reasoning in the world does not reveal God. Faith is more a matter of the heart than of the mind. There comes a moment where we make a 'leap of faith,' when faced with all the evidence, teaching and experience we have, we make a choice to believe in God and trust Him at His Word. In our relationship with God, we experience His love and His Presence. Live confidently in His love. In His own time, God will answer all our questions.

32nd Sunday in Ordinary Time

A near-by day care center often takes the kids out for a walk around the neighborhood. It looks like a small human train as each kid holds on to a long rope that connects them altogether. As they walk along, they call out warnings to their friends: car! curb! puddle! oops! They look around as they walk, staring at people or signs, bumping into each other and sometimes tripping over themselves! No one can help but smile at the little engines that could!

Our family ties help us navigate through life. We hold on to the love and memories we share; we depend on each other for warnings and support; we offer help and hope so everyone makes the journey of life safely. Families are not always perfect, and at times, things are not ideal. But that does not prevent us from reaching out to others, especially those who have no one, those who have been abandoned or lost. In the holidays ahead, everyone is willing to help others, but it is a short-lived desire and often distant at best. Beat the rush! Start now to offer healing and hope, to support and comfort, to notice the pain and suffering of others. It's all about sticking together, hanging on to the rope of faith, hope and love. Let us help someone make the journey of life safely! It will make your own journey that much better.

HAITIAN COMMUNITY'S ANNOUNCEMENTS ANNONCES DE LA COMMUNAUTE HAITIENNE

La Dédicace de la Basilique du Latran le 9 novembre. Après la fête de l'Église du ciel le 1^{er} novembre et celle de l'Église du purgatoire le 2 novembre, c'est en quelque sorte la fête de l'Église de la terre que nous célébrons avec la dédicace de la Basilique Saint Jean de Latran. Aux premiers siècles du christianisme, l'Église persécutée ne put bâtir de temples et dut célébrer les divins mystères dans des maisons particulières ou dans les catacombes, sur les tombeaux des martyrs. Mais quand la paix fut donnée aux chrétiens, on vit bientôt surgir de toutes parts des temples magnifiques en l'honneur du seul vrai Dieu, sur les ruines des temples du paganisme. Le Christ et sa Croix rendirent l'empereur Constantin victorieux de son rival Maxence. Ne marchandant pas sa reconnaissance, le grand empereur mit fin aux persécutions sanglantes, donna la liberté à l'Église et fit construire à Rome sur l'emplacement du palais des Laterani la basilique du Saint-Sauveur, appelée aussi Basilique Saint Jean de Latran dont le pape saint Sylvestre fit la dédicace en 324. Cette fête mérite de notre part un respect tout spécial. Les édifices de nos églises nous montrent dans le temple la maison de prière, la maison de Dieu, une image de la céleste Jérusalem, la porte du Ciel. Même les pierres de nos églises nous parlent pour nous rappeler que nous sommes les pierres vivantes du Temple mystique que Dieu ne cesse de construire.

Le père Garcia est disponible au bureau du Christ-Roi les lundis et mardis de 9 h 30 am à 2 h 30 pm et le dimanche après la messe sur rendez-vous.

Tous les membres de groupes de la communauté sont attendus au Glastonbury Abbey, Hingham, MA le samedi 16 novembre prochain. Départ 7 h 30 am. Ce sera une grande journée de prière et de ressourcement pour ceux qui sont appelés à témoigner de leur foi dans le monde.

Le samedi 23 novembre prochain, il y aura la grande soirée de gala du Christ-Roi comme l'année dernière. Ce sera le grand moment du 'Fundraising' de la Communauté haïtienne de Brockton au profit de la paroisse du Christ-Roi. Admission: Adultes $20.00; Jeunes $ 10:00; Enfants $5:00.

Le dimanche 24 novembre prochain sera la fête du Christ-Roi. Messe solennelle à 12 h 30 pm comme d'habitude. Ne venez pas seul! Vous êtes priés d'amener avec vous votre invité cette grande fête du Christ notre Roi, le Roi de l'univers. Soyez gentil, courtois, et accueillant! Cédez votre place aux invités et nouveaux-venus.

Venez vous ouvrir au trésor de la formation biblique en participant au cours de Bible qui seront dispensés ici à la salle paroissiale du Christ-Roi tous les premiers et troisièmes lundis du mois, à partir du 2 décembre prochain.

Le samedi 7 décembre prochain il y aura une grande rencontre de prière au Stone Hill College avec le groupe charismatique de la communauté "Le Sourire de Marie" de 9 h am - 5 h 00 pm. Cette journée sera animée par le R.P. John Morin.

From Fr. Carlos

As we face the mystery of what happens after death, a variety of opinions has arisen throughout the course of human history. Even among God’s chosen people, there were a number of opinions. The Pharisees believed in the resurrection and the Sadducees did not. Jesus inserts Himself into this confusion as He does into other areas of human life and with His light He begins to show us the truth of the matter. In this week’s Gospel reading He reassures us of the possibility of eternal life and He gives us a glimpse of the life of Heaven. This teaching that Jesus offers us is a truth which we will not fully understand on this side of Heaven, but if we begin to embrace it as best we can, it will give deeper meaning and order to the course of our lives.

In the reading from the Book of Maccabees we read part of the account of the torture and martyrdom of a mother and her seven sons. They faced all of this not for some large-scale act of aggression but rather for refusing to eat some pork. It may seem like an absurd situation to us. In their place I suspect that many of us would have eaten the pork rather than face death, and we would have done exactly the wrong thing. This lesson may seem like a difficult one, but we have to remember that Jesus reaffirms it when He tells us in the Gospel of John, “Whoever loves his life loses it and whoever hates his life in this world will preserve it for eternal life” (Jn 12:25). Eating a piece of pork seems like a small gesture, and thanks to the vision God gave to Saint Peter, pork and shrimp and other foods are no longer forbidden to us (Acts 11:4-10). The lesson, however, remains the same. Seemingly small and insignificant gestures on the human level take on a deeper meaning when we see them with God’s eyes. Just like that mother and her sons, Christians throughout the centuries have preferred to die rather than to do things as simple as offering incense to an image of the emperor or stepping upon a holy card or a crucifix. We also have to remember that the heroic witness of these Christians is not locked in some long-ago barbaric past. It continues in many places throughout the world today. Their witness teaches us the importance of what Jesus has given us. Their witness also reminds us that this life is good and we should enjoy it, but we should never do so at the cost of eternal life. We need to weigh our actions and decisions not by how they may appear to others but by how they appear to God and the laws He gave us to govern our lives. While others may judge us in this life their judgments don’t have eternal consequences. On the other hand, if we strive to live in a way that pleases God we’ll also be living in a way that does the most good to others and brings joy to us and to many around us.

Post-Confirmation Youth Group

We will be beginning a prayer group-faith sharing group for our young people who have already made their Confirmation. Initially the group will meet every other week on Sunday evenings from 7-8pm. The first meeting will be on November 17th in the youth center at Christ the King Church. If you are interested in attending please contact Fr. Carlos so that we can get a headcount. You can reach him by phone at (508)586-6491 ext 13 or via e-mail at rev.carlos.suarez@gmail.com. Please spread the word.
