Upcoming...

With the celebration of Labor Day (9:00 a.m. Mass in Main Church on Monday) we really find our selves in full activity at the parish. This week our Preschool begins and now all classes are full-steam ahead. Plans for FAIRASCENSION are moving ahead. I've met with the team planning to renovate the original school building for Parish Administrative Offices and hope to have final plans in place soon. The hillside along Santa Maria continues to be reviewed by MSD and will then be presented to Chesterfield for necessary approvals. Oh yes, and Masses are celebrated, Sacraments shared, meetings held, and prayers are offered....normal life at the parish.

The Survey, Commissions, and Status Report

As was noted in last week's bulletin, the standing three Commissions are working to formalize their plans for moving forward. I also invite you to consider if you feel called to volunteer for one of the three new commissions.

Education Commission - to foster our efforts to educate all the children of the parish and strengthening all our programs

Youth Commission - review our outreach and formation of youths (teens) in the parish

Social Justice Commission - continuing to broaden and raise awareness for outreach and care to those in need

We will begin accepting volunteers for these commissions on September 16.

FAIRASCENSION

A late entry in the naming of the Fall Festival won the hearts of the committee. Hence, October's parish festival will be known as FAIRASCENSION. Thanks to Carol Martin for the name suggestion. Mark your calendars for the October 20-21 festivities.

From Fr. Lampe

Real Presence of Jesus in the Eucharist

Part 2

Let us think of a manikin covered in a ski suit. What is it? A manikin. We see the height as well as the positioning of the arms and legs and the color, texture, and size of the ski suit on the manikin. What if we came back later and saw what looked like the same manikin based on the height, position, etc but without our knowing it a person of the same height put on the ski suit and stood where the manikin was. What is it? This time it is a person, although he appeared to be the same as the manikin. It's not a perfect analogy, because if you remove the mask you can see the person, and with the Eucharist all that you can physically see is the appearance of the bread, but hopefully this expresses the idea of the appearances remaining while the substance changes.

Someone might object to this since it still looks like bread, so it seems that the Eucharist is deceiving us. This is a good objection, but it is not deception in that what we see is the real appearances of bread since only the substance, not the appearances, was changed. Remember the manikin, and how the appearance was the same even though the second time it was a person not a manikin. God upholds the appearances with the substance of bread no longer being present. So, we can think of the Eucharist as a double miracle, first that bread and wine become Jesus Christ, and secondly, that the appearances remain.

Thanks be to God, for the second miracle of the appearances of bread and wine remaining. Otherwise, it would be really difficult to eat the Flesh and drink the Blood of Jesus Christ as He commanded us to do. Also, if the Eucharist wasn't really Jesus, then we would be worshipping unleavened bread instead of God, which is idolatry and breaks the first of the Ten Commandments. So, let us thank God for the gift of Jesus Christ truly present in the Most Holy Eucharist.
