A WORD FROM THE PASTOR

The Solemnity of the Annunciation (March 25th) is one of my favorite church feasts. I think it all started with a painting of the Annunciation by Fra Angelico (1395-1455) in Madrid's Prado Museum. The depiction of Mary and the Angel is not centered in the frame; rather, on the far left of the painting is a scene from the Garden of Eden. As darkness descends, Adam and Eve are expelled from the beautiful and lush garden by an angel. The lowering light is a sign that sin has entered the world—a rupture between God and humanity. But as the eye moves further to the right in the painting, light emerges. It is dawn, a new creation. Now, another angel, Gabriel, comes to Mary and speaks the first words of Christianity: "Rejoice, O highly favored daughter, the Lord is with you." As a Preface at Mass says, "the long reign of sin is ended, a broken world has been renewed, and we are once again made whole." Fra Angelico's painting gets to the very heart of Catholicism—and my heart as well.

A book came out a few years ago entitled American Catholics Today. The book is a study of Catholics in the United States and how they identify themselves. The survey group was asked to rate 12 "elements" of Catholicism on a scale that went from "very important" to "not important at all." Some of the elements they were asked to rate were "helping the poor," the "celibate male clergy," "devotion to Mary," the "teaching on abortion," the "death penalty," and so on. The survey allowed respondents to indicate those aspects of Catholic heritage that touched them most deeply and kept them tied to the Church.

So what was the response? The top four responses, all voted "very important," were 1) helping the poor, 2) the Resurrection of Jesus, 3) the Eucharist, and 4) Mary, the Mother of Jesus. At the bottom of the list were "teaching authority," "death penalty," and "celibate male clergy."

What I found interesting in this survey was that Catholics define themselves not so much according to theological principles as on images and stories that touch us. For example, the Annunciation (where God raises up the poor and the lowly); Christmas (the Son of God is born to Mary, not in a palace, but a stable); Holy Thursday (God washes our feet, gives us the Eucharist, and establishes the priesthood); and Easter (death gives way to life, Jesus is raised from the dead). These are powerful images and stories that come from Nazareth and Bethlehem, from the Upper Room, and Calvary, and the empty tomb. These are the images and stories that we celebrate liturgically, that give us life, that unite us as a community, that energize us for service to the world. And to these stories we add our own, helping us understand ourselves. Our Catholic identity is founded on a rich scriptural and theological history, but it is our own stories that bring scripture and theology to life. They make us who we are—a community of believers who call ourselves "Catholic."

Msgr. Patrick S. Brennan
