TODAY'S READINGS THE MOST HOLY TRINITY

"Baptize them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit"

First Reading: Deuteronomy 4:32-34, 39-40

Moses' address to the people of Israel cites their unique vocation, and then he links it with the specialness of the "Lord your God."

Second Reading: Romans 8:14-17

The Christian life is lived in the Spirit and is destined for glory. The Christian becomes a child of God, empowered to call God "Abba", which is equivalent to "Daddy."

Gospel: Matthew 28:16-20

This dramatic ending of Matthew's gospel includes the so-named "Great Commission". In the present time, this command of the Lord still holds true for believers, whose daunting task is made easier by Jesus' promise to be with us doing it.

THE WORD THIS WEEK

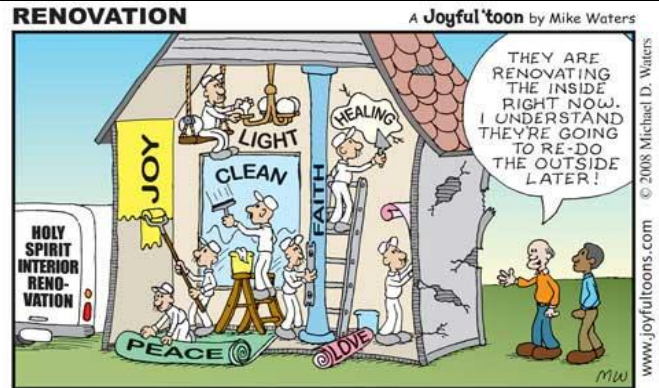

When the Church celebrates the Feast of the Most Holy Trinity, it is an attempt to summarize the whole mystery of our God into one day. This is not just a "theological feast" but a feast which should speak to us of this simple fact of faith: the Father loves us, has revealed that love in his Son, and has called into a relationship sustained by the Spirit. It is our joy that, as baptized members of the Church, we can somehow share in that divine life and love which is the Trinity~ becoming children of God. God has chosen us, and we are his own people, just as he chose the people of Israel long ago. The mystery of the Trinity is not meant to make this more difficult - on the contrary it is to clarify and summarize all that our faith is about: that we are children - with the Son, in the power of the Spirit - of the one Father.

Feast of the Most Holy Trinity

Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

This past March I had the honor of baptizing my second great nephew, one Benjamin Anthony. One of the great thrills we priests have is to do such things in and for our families. In a happy coincidence, the parents are now members of the parish from which I retired as pastor. So it was memories galore surrounding the event. But as I poured the water on that tiny forehead the present moment was the supreme one. As I did so, I repeated the words of Our Lord recorded in today's Gospel. They comprise what has since become known as "the Great Commission."

Those familiar words we all say as we make the sign of the cross were originally Our Lord's parting words to the Eleven Apostles, and constituted His marching orders, so to speak. What deep mystery is wrapped in Jesus' use of the singular word "name" applied to three Persons with different names!

Whatever temptation enters a preacher's mind to explain the Trinity is risky, because it is inexplicable. Analogies have been made, such as St. Patrick's shamrock, and the modern use of H₂O, which remains in the liquid, ice and vapor form. We remain incapable of grasping the inner nature of our Creator, so far beyond our experience as creatures.

We have Jesus' word on it, and when you ponder the fact, you can easily conclude that He gave us a gift when He revealed this truth. It is His love for and trust in us that prompted Him to reveal just Who God is. It is not unlike the self-revelation we make over time to people we love and trust. That openness forms the divide between our many acquaintances and our much fewer close friends. We go about our mission knowing we are greatly loved, despite our unworthiness.

As for the matter of making disciples, we have to admit it is a tall order. The Eleven must have thought so, especially since they spent much of their adult lives as fishermen. But note Jesus' consoling words: "And I am with you all days until the end of the age." We link that with the words of the Archangel Gabriel to Mary "There is nothing God cannot do" and the fear factor dissolves.

A cautionary note: we cannot pretend that such is the job for others, but not us. Of bishops and priests, perhaps. Or nuns and lay missionaries. It is the task of every baptized person. If there is any preaching to do at all, it's done without words. It is the powerful example of how you live; how you speak; how you conduct your affairs; manage your money; exercise your sexuality; drive your car; treat your family and friends; and generally practice your faith that will make all the difference.

We have now the example of Pope Francis. He has exhorted us by his words to leave our comfort zones and be a Church that goes out into the streets to meet the world face to face. But what the world notes are his actions. To its wonder they match. So, with the Trinity behind us and the pope ahead of us, we can't lose, even if from time to time we face setbacks. It is more than good to remember that "Christianity is a way of walking as well as a way of talking."
