On my first visit to this Synagogue as Bishop of Rome, I wish to express to you, and to the whole Jewish community, the fraternal greetings of peace of this Church and of the entire Catholic Church.

In Buenos Aires I used to go to the synagogues and meet with the communities there. I would follow the Jewish festivals and commemorations and give thanks to the Lord, who gives us life and who accompanies us over the course of history. Over time, a spiritual bond has been formed, fostering an authentic relationship of friendship and inspiring a common commitment. In interreligious dialogue it is fundamental that we encounter each other as brothers and sisters before our Creator and that we praise him; and that we respect and appreciate each other, and try to cooperate. And in the Jewish-Christian dialogue there is a unique and particular bond, by virtue of the Jewish roots of Christianity: Jews and Christians must therefore consider themselves brothers, united in the same God and by a rich common spiritual patrimony on which to build and to continue building the future.

FAITH IN ACTION

This article comes from Our Sunday Visitor

Faith Focus for the Week

IN WHAT WAYS DO I BRING HOPE TO OTHERS?

We all have dreams and hopes. Yet, we have no guarantee that all that we hope for and dream will come to pass in this life. We might find ourselves disappointed, crushed, even despairing. Not so with Christian hope.

Christian hope is grounded in God. It is a solid trust that God's promises of the Kingdom will be fulfilled. We base our conviction on what God has already done for us: God's forgiving and reconciling love was manifested in Christ, for all.

It is a communal hope based on God's covenant and expressed in our own work of reconciliation. Hope—directed to the future—bridges the imperfect, unfulfilled reality of the now and the kingdom of holiness and wholeness yet to come.

Christian hope is pure gift, a gift of the Spirit that motivates us to imagine and live our lives of faith more vividly and more deeply.

Consider creating a digital hope chest for yourself or your family.

- Gather your family and talk about what each member hopes for in the future.
- Identify one thing that would prepare each person for the future and/or expresses a desire for what that future might look like.
- Create a digital hope chest by recording family members' responses on your iPhone or tablet or taking a picture of an item you hope to use or have in the future.

In the months and years to come, revisit the family hope chest. Give thanks for hopes that were fulfilled, pray for those not yet realized and name new ones as your Christian journey continues.

DID YOU KNOW?

THE PARISH LOGO gives form to the breadth and depth of the title we bear, Risen Christ Catholic Community.

THE BROKEN CROSS affirms that the stranglehold of death is broken in light of Christ's resurrection.

THE WHEAT AND THE CEDAR OF LEBANON are biblical images for the paradox of death yielding life and the ancient roots of life. They are woven through the broken cross, symbol of death vanquished.

THE CIRCLE, open in each direction, reflects our Catholic identity—strong and clearly understood as well as open to the people and wisdom of the larger world.

ROOTED IN THE EARTH are the cross, the Lebanon cedar, and the wheat. They declare the common ground we share with all creation in God's gracious gift of resilient life.

Risen Christ Gardeners

This oppressive triple digit heat knocks any motivation out of me. Thorny weeds grow rampant and choke our gardens. I know what should be done but just don't seem to have the energy to do it. You ever feel like this?

Whether its your garden, your children, your job, or your marriage, I believe we are asked sometimes to reach beyond what feels good to us. In that is the rub of love. To ignore what God has given us and/or to put our own selves above what commitments we have made, is not love... at least the love Jesus spoke of. Yet the temptation is there for me (and us) every day.

I honor all of you who step out into the 'discomforts' of loving, to go beyond what your own selfish wants are in loving as Jesus taught us to love. This is where God helps us the most... in growing. If you had a tough time this week but persisted, welcome to the world of integrity; if you did it with loving intent with Jesus in mind, I don't think you are far from His hope for us.

God bless your efforts to love always. Weeb
