Reflection on the Gospel

By Fr. Mark Escobar, C.S.

Metaphor of the Vine and Branches

"I am the true vine, you are the branches. Whoever remains in me and I in him will bear much fruit, because without me you can do nothing. Anyone who does not remain in me will be thrown out like a branch and wither..."

In a familiar bric-à-brac stories of life there are certain elements or incidents that allow us to be involved and at times invite us to show our empathy with the characters. One example, for instance, is the gripping story of Slum Millionaire which explores the fight for survival, dignity and love of an impoverished orphan from the slums of Mumbai, India.

I was glued to reading it a while ago while I was on the plane heading for our annual provincial assembly held in Medellin, Colombia. Each chapter of the book explores relationships among the characters with the pain of loss, poverty, and violence in many forms. In much the same way, the inner quest for success in the future remains the magnet to the orphans like Ram Muhammad Thomas and this serves as a vital reaction to cope with life's difficulties.

In today's gospel I see that another powerful revelation is shown to us. It is another metaphor that Jesus uses 'I am the vine and you are the branches' to explain his relationship to his disciples. The key message is evidently 'relationship.' It is only in sustained relationship with Jesus Christ that our life gets its meaning and true sense of discipleship that generates love and charity. To know him and to understand who he is enable us to be transformed, pruned, crafted and purified according to the spirit of the gospel values. The implication is to be one body, one spirit as we aim to fulfilling Jesus' prayer to his Father: 'that we may be one as Jesus is one with his Father.' This is our prayer too; our identification with Christ.

Jesus knew that he would not be able to stay longer with his disciples since he had to go back to his Father. But he let his disciples know that he would send his Holy Spirit to be with and in them. He took this occasion to instruct them to remain in close fellowship with him through the Holy Spirit so that they may bear fruit, receive the blessings and have fullness of joy.

In rabbinical literature the horticultural imagery of a vine, its branches and fruit was already prominent in the mind of a first century Jew. Over the main entrance of the Temple in Jerusalem, where everyone had to come to enter the synagogue grounds, there was an exquisitely carved, gold-leafed vine, branches and rich grapes. Their symbolic meaning explains the nature of Jesus' relationship with those who would be his disciples.

Today when we think of Israel or the Jews themselves what comes to our mind is the symbol of the Star of David or, the menorah. This was not common impression two thousand years ago. Grapevines, however, were a familiar landscape in Palestine. They were used symbolically in the scriptures. Vine or vineyard in the OT, for instance, always represented the whole people of Israel (Mk 12:1-12); a symbol of the spiritual relationship between God and Israel. Hebrew prophets like Hosea, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, made use of a vine or vineyard referring to Israel. However, they turned out to be unfaithful and non-productive. Which is why, Jesus, in his Messianic age, is now seen as the true vine who fulfilled the destiny to which Israel called.
