

SIXTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

Prayer to Nourish Relationships

God of all,
you have enriched us with a nation filled with people of many cultures.
Help us to love with no partiality,
reaching out in friendship
to all of your children.

Guide us to know the blessings that each of us
may bring to our lives.
May we welcome and nourish relationships from the diversity in our midst and remain in your love through our love of one another.

We ask this through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

God Shows No Partiality

Today's Readings: Acts 10:25–26, 34 – 35, 44–48; Psalm 98:1, 2–3, 3–4 (2b); 1 John 4:7–10; John 15:9–17

Today's First Reading may help us examine how we sometimes do not value those whom God values. Peter had thought that the covenant extended only to Jews, but at this meeting with the Gentile Cornelius understands that "God shows no partiality." Since the gifts of the Holy Spirit are poured over the Gentiles, it became apparent that the waters of Baptism should not be withheld. Considering this reading, we might want to examine ours and our parish's attitudes toward others. Do we recognize the gifts of those who are unlike us? Are we hospitable to all or do we show partiality? Does the leadership in the parish reflect the diversity of the community?

Understanding that God regards no one with partiality may help us comprehend how we are to love. In the Second Reading, we see that God sent his Son for all of us, not just those we consider worthy. Do we approach every person as though Jesus died so that he or she might have new life through him?

If God shows no partiality, we are called to do the same: to love everyone without reserve. Christ's command, the Gospel from John tells us, is to "love one another as I love you." Do we love as God loves when we reach out only to those who are like us or agree with us? We hear in today's Gospel that God appointed us "to go and bear fruit that will remain." How can you extend yourself to people in your parish, workplace, or community? How can your parish encourage its members to reach out to those who are unfamiliar to them?

ATTENTION

This Sunday, May 10th will be the last Sunday that we will have the 11:30 AM Mass. You will be happy to know that over the next few weeks you will start seeing the scaffolding coming down. When you are in Church this weekend, notice the painting in the archways has begun on the left-hand side. We will be sending out an update on the insurance process and the fund raising process that will allow you to see how it is all working. Please remember to pledge, if you have not already done so by checking the website at www.mystpatricks.com Thank you.

Dear friends,

Here is an article that I found quite interesting and appropriate for this day and age. It was written by Joe Pisani, who is an editor for the Fairfield County Catholic. It is entitled: Standing up for God in a secular society.

The commuter train out of Grand Central Terminal was short two cars, so people were packed in the seats, shoulder-to-shoulder. It was the perfect end to another perfect day in Manhattan. Nevertheless, everyone was relieved to be on board and going home, so they could put their heads on the pillow and get up and do it all over again.

In the silence before the train started to pull out of the station, someone sneezed and then sneezed again. A fellow who was reading his Kindle, instinctively said, "God bless you..." But then, his voice trailed off, as if he suddenly realized he had done something socially questionable by mentioning God in unfamiliar company—by mentioning God in a fiercely secular society where religion is routinely attacked on editorial pages and in university classrooms. There was no "thank you."

Times have changed. In the past, mentioning God was perfectly natural for men and women of faith. Now, you never know what will happen. Crazy as it seems, the only people who enjoy so-called "freedom of expression" are the ones who insult religion.

This fellow realized he had committed...a politically incorrect faux pas by "God blessing" someone, which could have led to an altercation if the person sneezing was an atheist.

Like most of us, he'd probably been raised in a family where you were taught to say, "God bless you" to someone who sneezed, but we live in strange times when it's more socially acceptable to use four-letter words than to say the name of God or Jesus reverently.

And there's no shortage of people who use God's name irreverently. Remember the Second Commandment which we learned in catechism, "Thou shall not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain"? It was number two out of ten, so that must say something about its importance.

However, in the entertainment industry, on city streets, in the workplace and in casual conversation, the only time people utter the name of God and the name of Jesus freely and forcefully is when they're cursing. How tragic is that?

St. Paul had a different view. He told the Philippians that "at the name of Jesus every knee should bend, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."

What has changed so much in a few decades? For one thing, atheists have become more aggressive, and they resent any public reference to God in social gatherings, in the classroom, at Christmas, in speeches, in the Pledge of Allegiance, in political gatherings and on playing fields. But our hesitation to say "Jesus" and "God" in public is more than just catering to the whims and demands of a misguided few.

We feel uncomfortable in mixed company because God has become controversial in our secular society. Professors are disciplined if they profess orthodox Christian beliefs, students in public schools have their Bibles confiscated, and the athletes who invoke God are ridiculed or treated as embarrassments. Look at the field day the media had with Tim Tebow and his professions of faith.

Boston College professor and author Peter Kreeft claims that the name of Jesus in particular makes people uncomfortable. He says, "Test it in any secular company. The name Jesus will fall with a thud, and produce sudden silences and embarrassment. You not only hear the embarrassment, you can feel it. The temperature drops. Or rises. It never stays the same."

Nowadays, there's a lot of anger against organized religion, especially against Catholics, because our beliefs conflict with the prevailing social agenda, which supports abortion, assisted suicide, pornography, the hooking-up culture and every other form of acceptable vice.

But it's time to bring our faith back into the public square in big ways and in small, whether it's one "God bless you" on a crowded train or in a crowded doctor's office—or defending our faith when it's belittled at social gatherings.

If you do only one small thing every day, say, "God bless you," when someone sneezes. Say "God bless you" when someone is troubled and needs encouragement. Say "God bless you," if for no other reason than to share God's love and give him glory.

And never forget what Jesus said: "Whoever is ashamed of me and of my words in this faithless and sinful generation, the Son of Man will be ashamed of when he comes in his Father's glory with the holy angels."

God bless you...

Craig

Thanks to all our parishioners who have made their gift to the 2015 Partners in Charity Annual Appeal.

St. Patrick's has pledged or raised $24,655.00 towards our goal of $42,000.00 which is the same goal we met last year. If you have not yet made a gift or pledge, please fill out a commitment pledge envelope located in the bulletin racks, drop a check in the basket or visit www.partners-charity.net.

Parish Humor: Somebody has said that there are only two kinds of people in the world. There are those who wake up and say, "Good morning, Lord," and there are those who wake up and say, "Good Lord, it's morning!"

This Week At Home

Monday, May 11: Presence of the Holy Spirit

Today's Gospel contains a warning. The future will be tumultuous for the disciples. They will be thrown out of the synagogues and be killed by those who think that they are doing the right thing. Still, the Holy Spirit, the Advocate, the Spirit of truth will be with them. He will speak for Christ, and it will be their responsibility to do so also. Do you pray to the Holy Spirit to help you face difficulties and challenges in life? Acts 16:11-15; Psalm 149; John 15:26-16:4

Tuesday, May 12: Faithful Testimony

In today's reading from the Acts of the Apostles, we see the persecution of the disciples that Jesus foretold. Paul and Silas are stripped, beaten, and imprisoned. Still, they pray and sing. And when an earthquake opened their cell doors, they did not escape but provided a testimony of faith to the jailer. Are you able to sing in spite of hard times? Does your prayer provide consolation? Acts 16:22-34; Psalm 138; John 16:5-11

Wednesday, May 13: Our Lady of Fatima

The Memorial of Our Lady of Fatima observes the apparitions to three Portuguese children in a field close to Fatima. Pope John Paul II attributed the intercession of Our Lady of Fatima with saving his life when he was shot on May 13, 1981, in St. Peter's Square. Exactly a year after the assassination attempt, the pope celebrated a Mass at Fatima, giving thanks to Mary. Mary is the Mother of the Church and also the spiritual mother to each of us. Acts 17:15, 22-18:1; Ps. 148; John 16:12-15

Thursday, May 14: If Celebrating the Ascension Today

Today's solemnity is a celebration of Jesus' enduring presence within the Church. The Ascension was both the beginning and end for the disciples. Instead of being left with sorrow and grief, they were filled with joy and with great anticipation for the coming of the Holy Spirit. Can you name some ways in which the Holy Spirit is living and working in the Church today? Acts 1:1-11; Ps. 47; Ephesians 4:1-13; Mark 16:15-20

Friday, May 15: St. Isidore

St. Isidore the Farmer (1080-1130) is the patron saint of Madrid, Spain, and the United States National Catholic Rural Life Conference (NCRLC). NCRLC works for social, economic, and spiritual development in rural America, through prayer, education, and advocacy. You may want to visit www.ncrlc.com to keep up with legislative and other issues that affect not only farmers but all who rely on them for food. The materials on the website, including an Eater's Bill of Rights, are from the perspective that we need to be faithful stewards of creation. Acts 18:9-18; Psalm 47; John 16:20-23

Saturday, May 16: Your Joy Will Be Complete

"Very truly, I tell you, if you ask anything of the Father in my name, he will give it to you." In the discourse in today's Gospel, Jesus continues to teach the Apostles how to pray, this time telling them to pray in his name to the Father. When they do so, their prayers will be granted. It is interesting that Jesus tells the Apostles that their joy will be complete when they ask and receive. What do you consider complete joy to be? Acts 18:23-28; Psalm 47; John 16: 23-28

Please don't forget to register on-line for fall Religious Education Classes. Class days and times are on the inside cover of the bulletin or visit our website at mystpatricks.com.

Sixth Sunday of Easter

"This is my commandment: love one another as I love you. No one has greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friends" (John 15:12-13) Do you love Jesus? Do you consider Him your friend? Jesus says that if we love Him we should be willing to offer whatever we have to Him, not because we want praise and glory, but simply because we love Him.

Parish Humor: A father was approached by his small son who told him proudly, "I know what the Bible means!" His father smiled and replied, "What do you mean, you 'know' what the Bible means? The son replied, "I do know!" "Okay," said his father. "What does the Bible mean?" "That's easy, Daddy..." the young boy replied excitedly, "It stands for 'Basic Information Before Leaving Earth!'"
