FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

When you read of Jesus' temptations, what strikes a chord of empathy in you? The heat? His hunger? The moral struggle? A compelling picture this Messiah - hungry, parched, exhausted. Yet even more sorrowful is the fact that Jesus endured these trials all alone. While angelic messengers offered comfort, Jesus lacked the compassion of even a single human heart. As would happen throughout His life when a crisis hit, the people dearest to Jesus seemed to disappear.

It's a situation familiar to many of us. Our lives are packed with friends when we celebrate. But where are those numbers when serious illness strikes? Who remains loyal when financial or legal troubles arise? And should we truly stumble into sin, who reaches out in compassion and mercy? Jesus does. He knows the sorrow of isolation. He remembers how it felt to have friends walk away.

It is this that makes our Savior so precious to us. Having walked the human path, He knows the deepest needs of our hearts even in our darkest times. With Christ we need never be alone.
