Respect Life Month: Every Life Is Worth Living
Inclusion Awareness Sunday

From the Pastor's Desk

Today is the Twenty-eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time. The second Sunday of October (Respect Life Month) is rendered Inclusion Awareness Sunday by the Archdiocese of Chicago in cooperation with Pathways Awareness Foundation. See the column at the right of this page.

The anticipated letter from Archbishop Blase Cupich formally assigning Frank Mamolella as a deacon for service at Saint Hugh Parish arrived. Frank was quickly put to work with the Pet Blessing on Friday October 2. He participated in his first meeting of the Pastoral Staff this past Tuesday and he will assist at the altar and preach at two of the Masses next weekend. As we reacquaint ourselves to having a deacon here, I call the reader's attention to Father Paul Turner's article on page four of this bulletin regarding the liturgical vestment of the deacon.

Columbus Day originated as a celebration of Italian-American heritage and was first held in San Francisco in 1869. The first state-wide celebration was held in Colorado in 1907. In 1937, Columbus Day became a holiday across the United States. Since 1971, it has been celebrated on the second Monday in October. The date on which Columbus arrived in the Americas is also celebrated as the Día de la Raza (Day of the Race) in Latin America and some Latino communities in the USA. Please note that the Parish Offices will be closed on Monday October 12 for the national holiday.

Let us continue to pray for one another and for our parish.

Father Reszel

Question of the Week

What "scepters and thrones," "riches and gems," or "comeliness" come between me and a more selfless following of Christ?

Walgreens will offer a Flu Shot Clinic here on Sunday October 18 from 8:30am until Noon. Get your flu shot this year at Saint Hugh before or after Mass next Sunday.

Respect Life Month: Every Life Is Worth Living

Inclusion Awareness Sunday

As part of Respect life Month and in cooperation with the Pathways Awareness Foundation, the parishes of the Archdiocese of Chicago dedicate today to raising the level of sensitivity of all of us to those in our parish communities who have physical, sensory or cognitive disabilities. The Beatitudes of Acceptance (author unknown) indicate some of the ways that we may be more welcoming and respectful to the members or our faith community and to those who visit Saint Hugh Parish. Learn more at: www.InclusionInWorship.org

Beatitudes of Acceptance

+ Blessed are you who take time to listen to difficult speech, for you help me to know that if I persevere, I can be understood.

+ Blessed are you who walk with me in public places and ignore the stares of strangers, for in your friendship I feel good to be myself.

+ Blessed are you who never bid me to "hurry up" and, more blessed, you who do not snatch a task from my hands to do it for me, for often I need time rather than help.

+ Blessed are you who stand beside me as I enter new and untried ventures, for my uncertainty will be outweighed by the times I surprise you and me.

+ Blessed are you who ask for my help and realize my giftedness, for my greatest need is to be needed.

+ Blessed are you who help me with the graciousness of Christ, because I sometimes need the help for which I cannot ask.

+ Blessed are you who, in all ways, assure me that what makes me an individual is not my particular disability, but my beautiful God-filled personhood which no disabling condition can confine or define.

+ Rejoice and be glad, for you have helped me believe in myself as valued and gifted person and your understanding and love have opened doors for me to enjoy life to the fullest.

God's Word Today

The journey of faith is not easy. Like the young man in today's Gospel, we often ask, "What more must I do?" And the answer, of course, is that there is always more that we can do. Sometimes we get discouraged because we think that "more" means doing things that are extraordinary, like becoming missionaries, or emptying our savings accounts in order to give it all to the poor. The "more" that is asked of us is often very ordinary. Are we being asked simply to pay more attention to our spouse or our kids? Are we being asked to take stewardship more seriously? Are we being asked to strengthen our friendship with the Lord by taking more seriously the obligation to celebrate Mass each Sunday? Let us keep the "more" that is being asked of us in the realm of possibility.

Mental illnesses, such as depression, bipolar disease, schizophrenia, anxiety disorders and others touch one in four families. Stigma, the misinformation about these illnesses, keeps people from seeking help, and stigma keeps people from helping. Dalmatic by Paul Turner

Today the dalmatic is not the sort of garment you expect to see outside of a church service, but when it first appeared in third-century Rome from Dalmatia across the Adriatic Sea (the same place credited with a breed of dog made famous when 101 of them barked across movie screens), the garment made quite a fashion statement and senators adopted it as a sign of their rank. A calf-length tunic, wide at the sleeves, worn without a belt, it caused some scandal before bishops and deacons started wearing it as well. By the 11th century, the church designated the dalmatic as a vestment proper to them.

Worn over the alb, the dalmatic looks a lot like a chasuble, the outer vestment worn by the priest when he celebrates the Eucharist. It adopts the same color and often the same material as the chasuble. Many early examples sported two stripes from front to back across the shoulders. But the big difference in these vestments is sleeves. A chasuble is completely open from hands to floor, but a dalmatic has sleeves. Many people don't notice the difference. For this reason, many deacons opt to wear the stole without the dalmatic because the deacon's stole, cutting across the body at an angle and dropping in a dogleg near the knee, is more visibly distinct.

Although the dalmatic is generally identified with deacons, it remains a vestment that may be worn by bishops as well. When a bishop vests for a solemn service, he may wear the dalmatic under the chasuble, and in fact was required to do so for almost the past thousand years. Today he may omit the dalmatic for a good reason, and many bishops have dispensed with it as unnecessary.

During the ordination ceremony, the deacon formally receives his dalmatic, and it is placed on him by an assisting deacon or priest. By this investiture, the garment becomes a symbol of his role within the community.

Treasures from our tradition

How did the church dealt with "daily sins" in the first five centuries? As devout and observant as they were, our early fathers and mothers in faith could not have been all that different from us. Maybe they looked the other way when the grocer threw an extra fig in the shopping basket, or had a wandering eye for the widow next door, or had a taste for too much ale, or didn't let the truth get in the way of a good story. First of all, there was the Eucharist. The words are familiar: "This is the cup of my blood, poured out for the forgiveness of sin." Especially by participating in Communion from the cup, forgiveness was achieved. Eucharist was, and remains, the sacrament of reconciliation par excellence, the sign and source of unity with Christ.

There were other helps along the way: "fraternal" correction, or the course corrections we offer one another in love, prayer, fasting, works of mercy. St. Augustine listed endurance of suffering, forgiveness of insults, and added the praying of the Lord's Prayer in the liturgy. He felt that the public praying of the Our Father on Sunday and its daily use in private prayer was an essential remedy and the reason why everyone was not a candidate for canonical penance. Inherited from Augustine's practice, the Lord's Prayer in our Communion Rite still has the same purpose, preparing us for receiving and becoming the Body of Christ.

Stewardship thought

It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for one who is rich to enter the kingdom of God. MARK 10:25

Jesus uses tough language that we may not want to hear. But, we are all called to be generous with all our gifts. Not just the ones we pick and choose, but all our gifts: our time in prayer to God, our talent in participating in parish ministries and our treasure supporting our local parish and other charities.

Vocation Thought

Good Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life? If you ask the Lord this question in prayer, are you ready to respond with a joyful "yes" or will you turn from Him with a heavy, unyielding heart. Consider following Christ more closely as a priest or in consecrated life.
