Every Life Is Worth Living

From the Pastor's Desk

Today is the Twenty-ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time. As the next to last Sunday of October (Respect Life Month) today is recognized as World Mission Sunday. The column at the right of this page has a letter from Archbishop Cupich regarding this annual cause.

Below are a couple of pictures from the October 2 Blessing of Pets in memory of Saint Francis of Assisi. This debut of our newly appointed deacon was photographed by Fran Serpe who also conducted the children's choir that afternoon. Parishioners between the Frank Mamolella bookends are (from left to right): Marlene, Elizabeth, Janice, and Ava.

I would like to include more photos in our weekly bulletin and/or parish website. When you take digital pictures at parish events, please e-mail a copy to me: marcreszel@gmail.com

October 19 is the Memorial of the North American Martyrs: Eight Jesuit Missionaries, the first martyrs of the continent recognized by the Church, were canonized in 1930.

The first to be martyred, René Goupil, was tomahawked in 1642 for having made the Sign of the Cross on the brow of some children. In 1646 Isaac Jogues and Jean de Lalande were captured by a Mohawk war party. On October 18 Father Jogues was tomahawked and beheaded. Jean de Lalande was killed the next day near Albany, NY. Jean de Brébeuf composed catechisms and a dictionary in Huron and saw 7,000 converted. He was captured by the Iroquois and died after four hours of extreme torture at Sainte Marie, Canada. Father Anthony Daniel, working among Hurons, was killed by Iroquois on July 4, 1648. His body was thrown into his chapel, which was set on fire. Gabriel Lalemant was horribly tortured to death along with Father Brébeuf. Father Charles Garnier was shot to death as he baptized children and catechumens during an Iroquois attack. Father Noel Chabanel was killed before he could answer his recall to France. Despite difficulties, he made a vow to remain until death in his mission.

Let us continue to pray for one another and for our parish.

Hope Out of Darkness

View them as persons, seeing their faces and listening to their stories... To respond in a way which is always humane, just and fraternal. We need to avoid a common temptation nowadays: to discard whatever proves troublesome.

~Pope Francis, Address to Congress

During this month of Respect Life, let us reflect on the words of Pope Francis who reminds us that, as Catholics, we have the moral responsibility to protect and defend human life at every stage including immigrants and refugees.

Dear Friends,
The visit of Pope Francis last month to our country was a vivid reminder of the unity we share as Catholics throughout the world, especially with those living in poverty and in missionary lands. This month he is asking us to join him in giving expression to that unity by supporting the Churches at the margins through the annual collection on World Mission Sunday. While we may not be the ones who travel afar to preach the Gospel, we can be missionary disciples by our generous support of those who do.

As we think about participating in this worldwide effort to spread the Gospel through the Holy Father's Office of the Propagation of the Faith, we in the United States should remember that the Church in this nation was under this very same Vatican Office up until the last century. People from around the world donated generously as our dioceses were created, our parishes were built, and priests and religious from foreign lands came here to provide leadership. In fact, even to this day we enjoy the generosity of many priests and religious from other lands who serve in our parishes. We have been blessed by the sacrifices of others, and now it is our turn. We have been blessed with faith and abundant resources. Now the Pope is asking us to help him help others.

While I know that many parishes have their own missionary efforts through twinning and other relationships with dioceses and parishes abroad, the annual collection on World Mission Sunday provides us as the Archdiocese of Chicago an opportunity to join together in expressing our solidarity with Pope Francis by generously supporting this collection. When he came to our country as a missionary last month, he pointedly reminded us of our heritage of once being a mission Church, but he also urged us now to be a Church with a mission. The churches supported by the Pope's Office of the Propagation of the Faith oftentimes suffer from great poverty, and even violent persecution, social unrest, and wars. They need our help. They need our financial support, and they need our prayers.

By contributing to the appeal on World Mission Sunday we are saying to our brothers and sisters around the globe: You are not forgotten! The Church is with you in spirit; we embrace you and we seek justice. Catholics living in these troubled parts of the world, in more than a thousand dioceses, need us to be the merciful, compassionate presence of Christ. They need us to bring them the hope that comes through solidarity. Let's let the Holy Father know we stand with him.

Sincerely yours in Christ,
Most Reverend Blase J. Cupich
Archbishop of Chicago

God's Word Today

Last week's Gospel offered us the story of the young man who asked the Lord what more he needed to do to enter eternal life. This week James and John ask the Lord not for what more they can do, but what more Jesus is going to do for them, since they are such faithful disciples. Their arrogance is quickly addressed by the Lord, who lets them know in no uncertain terms that whoever wishes to be great must become the servant of others. Once again what our society values is quite simply turned on its head by the Gospel. One of the best examples of what it means to serve is one of the titles that is used to describe the pope: "Servant of the Servants of God." Even the one who is at the top of the hierarchy in the Church is called to be the servant of others. As we listen to today's readings, let us pray that we will continue to be formed as true Christian servants.

Wills / Bequests

After providing for your loved ones, please consider naming Saint Hugh Parish as a beneficiary of your estate.

Almsgiving opportunity

Non-perishable food may be brought to church and left in the basket under the table in the church vestibule or the basket in the altar servers' sacristy behind the Holy Family side-altar. Donations will be distributed by the Food Pantry of Lyons. Thank you for helping to feed the hungry.

To Lead

"The one who wants to be great among you must be your servant, even the slave of all." For Christians, to lead is to be "of service to others," a complicated and difficult task. It is too easy (and un-Christian) to demand respect, to lord it over others. The Messiah-Christ is the suffering servant who "justifies many, taking their faults on himself." So Jesus washed his disciples' feet. Jesus knows and feels our weakness from his own experience. We then can have confidence in his help for us.

Hail Mary by Paul Turner

The Hail Mary is probably the most popular prayer known by Catholics outside the Mass. It forms part of the rosary, the Angelus, night prayer, and certain otherwise hopeless situations involving a football.

It took us hundreds of years to write the Hail Mary. The first part came easy. It draws from the angel Gabriel's annunciation to Mary, that she would give birth to Jesus:

"Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with you" (Lk 1:28). When Mary visited Elizabeth, pregnant with John the Baptist, Elizabeth greeted her with the next phrase we use in the prayer, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb" (Lk 1:42). Over a period of centuries Catholics combined these two greetings of Mary and made them our own, figuring if Gabriel and Elizabeth could get Mary's attention this way, maybe we could too. We strung these greetings together with our own prayer for Mary's intercession. Part scripture, part tradition, the Hail Mary runs deep in Catholic spirituality.

Two popular prayer forms use the Hail Mary: the rosary and the Angelus. In the rosary, it serves as a mantra, a repetitive sequence of words, thoughts and rhythms that draw the believer into a prayerful trance before the mysteries of our salvation. In the Angelus it reminds the faithful three times a day of the incarnation, the Word of God becoming flesh.

In liturgical prayer, the Hail Mary has never staked out territory in the Mass. The Scripture quotations it borrows from Luke's Gospel do occur at Mass as antiphons and responses on feasts of Mary, but we usually substitute a hymn to Mary in their place. However, among liturgical prayers, we find the Hail Mary at the one we call "night prayer." The liturgy of the hours is the official Catholic prayer form marking the principal hours of the day: morning, daytime, evening, and night. The brief service that ends the day concludes with a prayer to Mary. The church offers us several options here, but the most familiar of them is the Hail Mary, the last prayer of the day. Treasures from our tradition

The Irish are rightly tired of being the subject of jokes about guilt. In fact, it is from the Celtic church that the whole experience of reconciliation in our tradition was creatively rescued and revived. The Irish church was unique in its origins, not so much organized around dioceses, but around monasteries. Aspects of religious community life readily spilled over into ordinary gatherings of the faithful, including the way people looked at sin and applied remedies. Unlike the public nature of canonical penance, the Irish method was linked to a kind of mentoring process they called "soul friending." Just as young novice monks might find a mentor in the wisdom of a senior guide, so did a way of penance open up to ordinary folks. Monks were accustomed to frequent confession of faults to the abbot or mentor, who would suggest penances. In time, abbots with a certain flair for this began to share lists of sins and corresponding "tariffs" with others. Some of these books survive, and provide a hair-raising view of long-ago sins like cattle rustling, and a great deal of self-correction involving dips in icy streams and rolling about in thickets of thorns. After the penance was performed, the penitent returned to the confessor, and in a private act marked by the laying on of hands, or perhaps a kiss of the altar, the sinner was restored.

Irish monks were committed travelers, and their methods were widely copied. We might say that they saved a sacrament, but at the expense of shifting attention to the sins of the individual and away from the actions of the reconciling community. - Rev. James Field, Copyright © J. S. Paluch Co.

Stewardship thought

For the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many.

MARK 10:45

If you held a mirror up to your life, would it reflect God's love and grace? If you are struggling with this, try changing your attitude from "I want more" to "thank you God for everything you have given me, I have enough to share". This change in perspective will bring you joy through service to others.
