YEAR OF MARK

January 18th, 2015 Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

Today's readings present us with the call narratives of the prophet Samuel and Jesus' first disciples. Samuel's story bridges the time of the Judges with the establishment of the monarchy in biblical Israel. The Book of Judges narrates a time when Israel fell into disarray and sin. As the final verse of the book tells us, "In those days there was no king in Israel; everyone did what was right in their own sight" (21:25). The author of the Book of Samuel tells us that in Samuel's day "the word of the Lord was scarce and vision infrequent" (see 3:1). Young Samuel begins a long line of prophets who will bring God's word to the people, for "the Lord was with him" (v19).

In the Gospel today Jesus begins to gather disciples. His first two are originally followers of John the Baptist. When John points Jesus out to them, "Behold, the Lamb of God" (v36), they begin to follow Jesus. One of them is Andrew, who proceeds to bring his brother Simon to Jesus, telling him. "We have found the Messiah" (v41). Like Samuel, these men are called by God to lead others to encounter God too.

Paul writes to the Corinthians in response to a letter they sent him. He offers advice concerning problems in their community. He cannot be with them, but he can provide guidance through his correspondence. Today's advice concerns sexual immorality. Paul reminds us that our "bodies are members of Christ" (v15), and so we should treat them with the appropriate respect. Since Christ redeemed us, the Spirit dwells within us. So Paul calls us to "glorify God in your body" (v20).

For Reflection: How would I describe my own call narrative? What has God called me to do?
